

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or fetid breath signals need of a sweeter. First signs will tell you that every supply of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

Wells Cool Oregon Theater
Nature's own cooling system has been harnessed by a Portland (Ore.) theater which drilled artesian wells tapping subterranean lakes 150 feet beneath the surface, to obtain a supply of water which is constantly 52 degrees, says Popular Science Monthly. This naturally cooled water supply is pumped to three banks of sprays.

Heron Made Short Circuit
A farm community near Plymouth Wis., was without electricity all of one night when a heron perched on a 2,300-volt power line and its tail came in contact with an adjoining wire. The resulting short circuit put out the lights in the surrounding farm homes.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

NEARBY AND YONDER

By T. T. MAXEY

A Master Speech-Highway

THE busiest long-distance speech highway in America, according to the records, is that one which speeds up talking by wire between New York city and Philadelphia—a distance of about 100 miles.

So great has been the demand for telephone service between these two great aggregations of humanity that calls are made at the rate of about eight per minute or about 10,000 every 24 hours—some 200 telephone circuits being kept busy day and night.

Four underground cables, each enclosing hundreds of wires, in addition to two wire-and-pole lines, are required to carry these messages and a fifth cable probably will be placed in service by the time this appears in print.

The underground cables used in this service are ingenious contrivances. They are considered storm-proof, insulated against dampness and encased in a sheath of lead. Although less than three inches in diameter, a sufficient number of wires can be packed into one of them to permit 250 telephone conversations and 500 telegraph messages to be transmitted at the same time—by virtue of a special apparatus which makes possible the sending of many messages over comparatively few wires.

The amazing demand and consequent rapid increase in facilities for overcoming the handicap of distance is here illustrated to the nth degree. The first telephone service between these points was installed in 1850. Doubting Thomas regarded the service as an experiment which might develop into a convenience, but never would develop into a necessary service to the public.

"The Greatest Bridge in the World"

A MASTODONIC bridge, officially known as the Hudson River bridge, but referred to as "The Greatest Bridge in the World," which will cut the air high above the waters of this famous and lordly stream between the Palisades of New Jersey and Riverside drive, New York, is under construction.

In an attempt to cope with the probable traffic demands of future generations, man has dared to build a bridge of such gigantic proportions as to stagger the imagination. The bridge proper will jump the river in a single span 3,500 feet long, while its length, exclusive of the ornate plazas which are planned for either end, will be 7,500 feet. Its two piers, resting on bed rock, will each be 210 by 65 feet at base and tower 635 feet above the water and its floor, which will be 225 feet above the water, will have an ultimate width of 188 feet. The weight of the suspended construction will approximate 30,000 tons, supported by cables containing 23,474 wires each and three feet thick.

The design adopted admits of expanding the capacity as necessity demands. Originally, its one deck will carry four lanes of vehicular traffic and two sidewalks. Later, two 24-foot roadways can be added. Finally a second deck can be swung under the first one, providing for from two to eight tracks for rapid transit service bringing the maximum capacity of the structure up to something like 30,000, 000 vehicles annually. All told, this is one of the most difficult construction feats yet attempted by man.

The Moffat Tunnel

AFTER years of tedious boring through six miles of solid rock and the expenditure of about $18,000, 000—the Moffat tunnel, carrying twin steel rails through the backbone of this continent, fifty miles northwest of Denver, was completed in 1928.

This is the highest tunnel in the world—being upwards of a mile and a half above the waters in the seas notwithstanding which some of the peaks of the Continental Divide tower half a mile above the track. It measures 16 feet by 24 feet and was built with a sharp dip at the center so that seepage water would readily drain away. It is 23 miles shorter and 2,400 feet lower than the previous route which squirmed over "The Divide" through that bleak canyons known as Rollins Pass.

This tunnel promises to become a national asset of no mean importance. It provides a gateway between a territory in Northeastern Colorado and Eastern Utah—that is larger than France and, 'tis claimed, holds enough coal to supply this country for several centuries, all shale beds capable of producing enough ammonium sulphate to fertilize all the farms in the Mississippi basin, billions of feet of timber and millions of acres of public lands open to entry—and some 40,000,000 persons who people that great area between the Rockies and the Alleghenies. When the railroad is completed to Salt Lake City it will materially shorten the distance between Denver and the Pacific coast and will thus operate to speed up transcontinental traffic.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW

The bulk of the world's supply of tungsten comes from China. The average cost of gasoline in Bolivia is 65 cents a gallon. There are more than 3,400 spoken languages and dialects in the world. Interest in automobilism has caused a slump in horse breeding in Belgium. Grizzly bears may be seen in three of the national parks in the United States.

Spain is to have a model automobile road 200 miles long. America imported $7,000,000 worth of black pepper last year. There are 75,000 elk grazing in national forests of the United States. The purple raspberry is the result of crossing black and red raspberries. The tales of "glass snakes" that break in pieces if struck are entirely mythological.

SAW LINCOLN SHOT

Benjamin Church of Lisbon, N. Y., despite his ninety-seven years, remembers with startling clarity the scene in Ford's theater in Washington on the evening of President Abraham Lincoln's assassination, April 14, 1865. Church, a young naval officer, was seated opposite the "Great Emancipator" and saw Booth shoot him.

Famous Vatican Library

A curious feature of the Vatican library, in the custody of which Cardinal Ehrle succeeds the late Cardinal Gasquet, is the pains which seems to have been taken to conceal it. You turn aside in a corridor not far from the sculpture gallery, and pass through a glass-paneled door, screened by a grating. Within is a great chamber, exquisitely decorated, but, at a first glance, without any sign of books. The books are there, however—tens of thousands of priceless volumes—but all in closed cases and cabinets beautifully painted to harmonize with the general scheme of decoration.

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmoniously the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given one and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 1701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son, Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Crowd to Lincoln Memorial

Since June 1, when the Lincoln memorial, in Washington, was first kept open at night, records kept by the United States park police show it to be the most attractive to sightseers. Between the hours of 4:30 and 9:30 p. m., guards reported the daily average number of visitors exceeded 800, and the record high was reached August 17 when 1,200 viewed the impressive statue of Abraham Lincoln.
