

THE TURNER TRIBUNE

Turner, Oregon, Thursday DEC. 19, 1929

F. H. Rowley, Editor

Issued Every Thursday at Turner, Marion County, Oregon

SUBSCRIPTION $1.25 PER YEAR. Entered at the Postoffice at Turner, Oregon, as second-class matter, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States and the country for which it stands. One nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

To Our Readers

Owing to some unforeseen circumstances over which we had no control, the fourth installment of "The American Home," by Job L. Manfred, will not appear until next week. Watch for it in the next issue of The Tribune.

An exciting race for the gubernatorial nomination at the primaries next spring is promised by some of the political weather prophets. On the Republican ticket will be Hall, of Marshfield; Bennett, of Portland, and in all probability the present incumbent, I. L. Patterson. No doubt there will be more hats in the ring by the time the primaries open. Scanning the slate as it is at present, there is good prospects for some lively campaigning. All three are men who carry considerable prestige over the state and will put up a hard fight for the nomination.

It looks as though Congressman Hawley would go in without opposition this time. For a while it was the intention of State Senator Norblad, of Astoria, to enter the race for Congress. Rumors are afloat that he has decided not to run. If he should decide to run, his decision would undoubtedly bring out others which would make things interesting.

There is but little interest in the Legislative and other state nominations. Some prospective candidates are feeling around but no definite action has been taken. There will not be much stir until the first of the year.

We Are Still Going

We were informed that the Oregon Statesman carried a news item that The Tribune had suspended publication. We did not quite reach that stage although we were very near it. We are glad to say that we have passed the danger point now and will issue The Tribune regularly as heretofore. We look for business conditions to improve with the first of the year. The farmers had a fairly good year and the heavy rains that are now falling will insure a good crop for next year. The primary election campaigns will soon be on. The effects of the Wall Street flurry is beginning to pass away. Everything considered the next year should be a good one.

Is There a Future For Turner?

Some of our good citizens would answer NO! to the above question. Our answer is, Yes. The future for Turner will be just what we, as citizens, make it. Industries can never be gained for a community by going around saying "it can't be done." All progress in a small community is gained through a concerted effort of the citizens. When we cast our lot in this community some seven years ago, we were met with the statement that there was nothing ahead for this town. One citizen of this community remarked to us that "All it needed was the hole and the dirt to bury it." Let us cite some of the improvements that have taken place in the past seven years. We have a new church, a boys' home, a new garage building nearly a block long, a new store building, the main street paved through town, a new concrete bridge at the junction of the Cloverdale road and Third street, the S. P. depot moved out of the right of way of Cloverdale road and probably other smaller items and yet the town was ready to be buried seven years ago.

From seven years of observation it seems that the chief reason for lack of progress is factional strife, although from what some of the older residents tell us these conditions are not as bad as they have been. If the citizens of the community can get on common ground and work together business progress can be gained. If we continue to scrap back and forth the community will continue to stay in the same old rut and fail to go ahead. There is no reason why Turner cannot show some progress in 1930. Let's Go.

ARTHUR SMITH, 69 DIED AT THE DALLES

J. A. (Arthur) Smith, who was born in the Waldo Hills district in this county 69 years ago, passed away last Friday at a hospital in The Dalles, following an emergency operation performed Thursday night, according to word received by relatives here. Smith farmed southeast of Turner until 25 years ago when he went to Wasco county. He lived at Wasco where interment took place Sunday. Smith was a brother of Mrs. W. T. Rigdon of Salem and of Charles M. Smith of Jefferson. He is also survived by the widow, Nora Smith, and the following children: Lester and Arthur Smith and Mrs. Lydia Darby, all of Wasco.—Oregon Statesman.

FIREMEN'S SMOKER A COMPLETE SUCCESS

Mill City, Or., Dec. 17.—The Mill City Firemen's Smoker was a complete success Tuesday night. The entire house was sold out and every fight was a whiz. Young Fitzgerald beat H. Klock in a four-round bout. The Mill City fighters came to the front in fine style. William Poole won a decision over Willie Murphy of Salem in a four-round bout and Si Flook won over Jack Woods of Salem in six rounds. Jimmy Dolan of Portland beat Willie Green Murphy of Pendleton by a knockout in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round main event. Murphy was substituted for Kentworth, as Kentworth dislocated his shoulder the Saturday night before in a bout in Eugene. Harry Levy of Salem refereed in dandy style.

METHODIST CHURCH CHRISTMAS PAGEANT SUNDAY, DECEMBER 22

The Christmas pageant to be given at the Methodist church Sunday night, December 22, offers something unique in the way of Christmas entertainment and will be an attraction which cannot be equaled. It is a refreshing change from the usual cantata or miscellaneous program.

The background is an immense scenic production in full colors, 9x12 feet in size. It transfers the entire front of the church back of the platform, into a panoramic view of Bethlehem and the plains of the shepherds. It is made from recent photographs showing landscape, buildings, trees, etc., as they appear at the present time—but little different from what they were at the time of Christ's advent.

This background in itself provides a new and rich Christmas treat worth going miles to see, giving the audience a large scale, topographical view of the city of Bethlehem, such as has never before been presented.

LULA GARNER DIES IN SALEM HOSPITAL

Miss Lula Garner, aged 17, died in a Salem hospital Monday morning. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Garner, and the following brothers and sisters: Glen, of Yakima, Wash.; Alvin, of Turner; Mrs. Clyde Riley, of Macy, Wash.; Olga, Florence and Rachel, all of Turner. Funeral services were held from the Clough-Taylor chapel Wednesday at 10 a. m., Rev. Burgoyne officiating. Interment was in the Claggett cemetery.

At the regular meeting of Victoria Chapter, O. E. S. held on Wednesday evening, December 11, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Worthy Matron, Emma Peterson; worthy patron, Herman Lewis; associate matron, Mary Kelly; associate patron, Charles Colvin; secretary, Elsie Lewis; treasurer, Charles Bones; conductress, Bessie Colvin; associate conductress, Vivian Ensley. The other officers will be appointed and installation will be held on December 23.

CRAWFROD

Richard Walker spent several days recently with his sister, Miss Mary Walker of West Stayton.

Miss Helen Witzel spent the week-end with Miss Tilda Johansen of West Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little were business visitors in Salem, Friday.

Mrs. R. O. Witzel and daughters, Helen and Helena, attended a shower given for Margaret McKay Tucker, which was held at the home of Miss Helen Peltz in Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Titus attended Grange in Turner, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wallace of Aumsville were Sunday visitors at the Raymond Titus home.

METHODIST CHURCH

The volleyball games every Monday night are still furnishing entertainment for young and old. More people are taking an interest in the game every week.

There has been a good attendance at church and Sunday school in spite of the stormy weather. The members and friends of the church are looking forward to the Christmas pageant, Sunday night.

Prayer meeting at the church Thursday night and choir practice at the Gunning home, Saturday night.

A few of the men of the congregation met at the church Monday afternoon and put up the big picture for the Christmas pageant.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Christmas program in story and song will be given in the church on Christmas Eve. The Christmas Tidings pageant will be given by the Sunday school, orchestra and chorus. There will be a tree for the children.

Last Lord's Day services were conducted by the Christian Endeavor and were the best ever held by this organization of young people.

Next Sunday the theme, both in the Bible study hour and sermon will be the birth of the Christ child. Christmas boxes will be filled and made ready to send to various places where needed, by the classes in the Sunday school.

MORE BROADCASTS FROM EUROPE SOON

New treats in radio programs in the next few months are forecast by Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, Vice-President and General Engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, whose work in research since the infancy of radio gives his opinion weight.

"It is expected," Dr. Goldsmith said, "that in the coming season there will be a notable increase in the quantity and quality of international broadcasting and a widened interchange of programs between various European countries and the leading broadcasting agency in the United States.

Broadcasting Will Aid World Harmony

A future in which races throughout the world will use English as a secondary language is envisaged by General James G. Harbord, who was Chief of Staff of the A. E. F. and now is President of the Radio Corporation of America, writing on radio as an instrument for promoting international understanding and peace.

Since the greater and most appealing part of the world's broadcast entertainment is offered in English from America and the British Isles, radio has provided the strongest incentive in history for many races to master a common tongue, General Harbord points out.

"We must not forget," he says, "that the nations' confusion of tongues has in itself been one of the most fruitful sources of international division and misunderstanding. People distrust what they do not understand; let them develop a common medium of communication and still another cause of distrust will fall by the wayside of human progress."

Radio and its allied agencies, television, will prove as valuable and perhaps more valuable than all diplomatic conferences in assuring universal peace for the future, General Harbord believes.

DECADE BRINGS VAST RADIO CHANGE

Tenth Anniversary of Organization Formed to Foster the Art in America Emphasizes Progress.

The story of a decade in which communication leaped beyond the wildest dreams of years that had gone before is linked with an anniversary which just has been observed. The anniversary, marking the passing of ten years since the Radio Corporation of America was founded, is significant for the entire field of radio because the corporation has been associated so closely with the great changes which have pushed back world horizons.

How great these changes have been it is hard to realize now that radio is accepted casually as one of the biggest of American industries, doing a business of more than $600,000,000 a year. It helps to bring some realization to consider radio as it appeared to the men who formed the corporation, starting business on December 1, 1919. Broadcasting as it is today, with becomes a story of men, as well as the story of an era. Among them are Owen D. Young, whose broadminded judgment since has been recognized by appointment as Chairman of the Reparations Commission; General James G. Harbord, military leader with a brilliant record in peace and war; President; David Sarnoff, Executive Vice-President, one of many on the 40,000,000 listeners in the United States, was undreamed of then. Transoceanic radio telegraph and ship to shore communication were the interests of the men who were brought together by Owen D. Young, now Chairman of the Board, with the sympathetic cooperation of the government.

President Wilson feared the Alexander Graham Bell radio telegraph, as they already dominated ocean cables and, at his request, the General Electric Company canceled negotiations for the device with the Marconi Company. It was to create a radio communication organization capable of holding its own against foreign competition and to supply such American organizations as the General Electric with a home market for inventions on which huge sums had been spent that the Radio Corporation was formed, welding under one central organization America's principal radio inventions and research facilities.

Now the history of the corporation company's first roll who had been working in telegraphy since boyhood; Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, Director of Research, a scholar of radio.

The possibilities of broadcasting suddenly were realized in 1920 and one of the most striking developments of modern times is summed up in the fact that between them and the end of 1923 the number of receiving sets in the United States increased from 25,000 to 1,500,000.

In the years that followed the Corporation organized a decade ago to further America's interests in radio telegraph has played its leading part in a changing world. Always developing that first interest in radio telegraph, it has acquired an important position in the closely allied amusement field. It has a substantial interest in the production, distribution and exhibition of sound-motion pictures, with increased facilities for furnishing entertainment and education in records, on films, through the air, in the theater and in the home.
