SCHOOL NOTES

The senior class play "The Ulster" had its first practice Monday, May 11. The play, a comedy, will be given May 29. Mrs. Jean Pearcy is coach.

The question of where the school picnic will be was also decided upon. The student body decided to go to Hazel Green, May 25.

The May Day festivities and crowning of Queen Gertrude that were held at the high school gym on the evening of May 1 were enjoyed by the largest crowd that has ever attended such an occasion.

The student body of the Stayton high school has been making preparations for the annual carnival, but due to the conflict with review week this year, it has been postponed until next year.

The high school semester exams will be given June 3-4. School will be dismissed the 4th of June. The 5th will be compiling of records and the commencement exercises will be in the evening. School will open next fall on September 21.

The junior-senior banquet was held at the Spa in Salem, Friday, May 8, 1931. Everyone present enjoyed the evening.

Miss Margaret Robertson, president of the junior class, was toastmistress. Miss Robertson gave the welcoming address, the response was given by Miss Sheila Delzell, president of the senior class. The banquet started at 8 p. m. The first course served consisted of fruit cocktail. Following this interesting talks were given by the faculty members. The second course was served, which was followed by speeches from members of the senior class. The third course consisted of Spa strawberry sundae and included choice of drink.

During the meal telegrams were delivered for Harold Smith and Seymour Stewart, respectively. These were read to the people present by the toastmistress. One was signed President Hoover, who offered his sincere regret that he was unable to attend the banquet and requested Harold Smith to deliver a speech in his place. The other asked that Seymour Stewart hasten east to take Babe Ruth's place while he is laid up.

The banquet table was nicely decorated with the senior class colors—green and gold. Green and gold paper cups and saucers served both as place card and favors. They were filled with after-dinner mints.

A large bouquet which decorated the center of the table was presented to the classes by the Breithaupt Floral Co.

Guests present were: Sheila Delzell, Helen Witzel, Helena Witzel, Lela Wilking, Gerald Given, Russel Denyer, Seymour Stewart, Harold Smith and Keneth Fowler. Faculty members present were: Mr. and Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Jean Pearcy, Mrs. Ivan Hadley and Mr. Hickok.

Hosts and hostesses were Margaret Robertson, Opal Mickenham, Audrey Shoen, Katherine Schampier, Gladys Given, Nellie Barber, Wilfred Harrison and Hildred Bones.
