New Industry For Turner--Fine Saw Mill Now Being Built

It has been the talk by farmers and others of the Turner community for some time, that a saw mill located here would be one of the best industries—from a financial standpoint for the community at large, that could be started, and with this in mind W. A. Martin, of the Turner Lumber Manufacturing Company, went to work, in earnest, and has succeeded in his undertaking.

Wednesday morning he started pouring the concrete foundation for his new mill, the size of which will be 22 88 feet with a capacity of 15000 ft. of eight hours run.

The new plant is being built just east of the present planing mill and will have out-off saw, edger, and the main saw 54 inch. The main rig or carriage will have an opening of 54 in. A 35 horse power engine, 65 horse power boiler, with Dutch oven, which will be a fuel saver (burning slabs) will be installed and the work calls for the completion of the mill by July first.

Mr. Martin informed the Tribune editor that the mill will be for the benefit of the farmers in the community who have timber to cut. He says all the farmer or logger has to do is to cut the timber and he will go and it. This will be a great help to farmers who want lumber for building purposes as a log may be put on the saw at one end of the mill, from there to the planer and come out to suit the builder.

Trucks will start hauling logs shortly so as to have ample timber on hand when the mill is ready to start.

For the present the mill will operate with about six men and together with the logging crew the payroll will be $30 a day, which will help in a big way; the financial depression of our little community.

The new mill is being built by Mr. Martin who is owner and manager. The mill will be a separate unit from the planer now operated by the Turner Lumber & Manufacturing Company.

Drying sheds will be erected later. This is not a cannery dream. It is a real story.

METHODIST CHURCH

In the evening Bro. Burgoyne brought a message on "The God Blessed Man," using the 1st Psalm for the scriptural foundation. This was a fitting climax to the wonderful day. He said in part: "The God blessed man is one the world cannot understand, a mystery. We must be clean cut—wholly the Lords, if we hold back the least sin, it keep pulling us back; to be happy we must lean all for Jesus. Let us not hang onto the least little pet sin but live so the Lord can depend on us."

Remember May 30th

May 30th, we remember; and remembering, judge ourselves.

A nation, like an individual, is the sum of all the preceding character that has contributed to it. There is the best and the worst, both made profitable by a just conscience which recognizes and decides between them. The light of high endeavor never goes out; the torch passes from generation to generation, borne safely amid tumult and peace, amid onslaught and reverence. Civilization, through the service of its better members, ceases never.

Today the nation stands on the golden hill-crest of which only the boldest had dared to dream, and looks back along the road. A long, magnificent road gloriously alive with the figures of brave men and brave women of loyal hearts, of undiscouraged purposes, of God-fearing manhood.

It finds, as it looks and reflects, that the many little roads which begin on the margin of national history have come together and now for these many years have flowed in one broad and broader highway. It perceives a strange intimacy of blue and grey, and dimmer figures in tatters or in soiled red coats; it sees unremarked, plain people, ennobled by service, who gave to civil life a little something more of integrity and fluency; it sees all sorts and conditions of man and woman, and of little children; and it notices that there is this common thing among them, that they all face forward to the future which now is ours. Finally, it recognizes, with gratitude and promise, that somewhere in this vast and diversely-born people there is the binding loyalty of a common service.

There is a flag, seen tiny against a speck of green and white, which flutters above the bivouac of Arlington. There is a wreath invisibly adorning the home of every family whose fathers and mothers lived worthy that the race might be nobly preserved.

There is a faith which, enriched by all these lives, is the deathless guardian of the people that dare not, nor wishes, to forget.

Today, we remember. There is a heritage preciously formed by the lives and deaths of many millions. They are the past which seeded the present. We honor them by relieving their service or shame them if our sense of citizenship is ignoble.

TURNER WHIPS LEBANON THREE TIES NOW IN CASCADE LEAGUE

Turner met Lebanon last Sunday and caught them unawares. When the smoke cleared the final score was 13 to 4 in favor of Turner. Lebanon made six errors to Turner's one but nearly caught them in hits, making nine while Turner got eleven safe blows.

Rankin, for Turner, had a great day collecting four out of five trips to the plate. This was the first game Lebanon has lost this season.

A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour, with several gentlemen Grangers joining the them. The ladies worked on quilts for the club. The Homecoming was all we had hoped. A very inspiring day! Sunday school session as usual in which several former members joined. The morning sermon was given by Rev. Pogue of Salem. "Everyone Went To His Own House" was his peculiar text, but he gave a very fine discourse. A basket dinner was served at noon. Mrs. Small read a paper and Mr. Duncan gave a talk from which we learned that Mill Creek Circuit was organized July 29, 1854, with F. H. Pearn Presiding Elder and Wm. Heim pastor in charge.

In 1868 the name was changed to Jefferson circuit. The annual conference at Eugene so changed this circuit as to include Howell Prairie and Silverton on the northeast, and all railroad stations along the O. & C. R. R. from Brooks to Jefferson and west to Salem, F. E. Royal was the circuit rider. Next the eastern section was cut off and with added territory organized into a new circuit with Scio as the nucleus and called Scio circuit. H. Hulbert was the preacher in charge. In 1881 the conference met in East Portland and changed the name from Howell to Salem circuit as that was the post office address of the pastor and a number of the members. Two churches were built on the circuit during F. F. Royal's time, 1 at Silverton costing $2500 and one in the Jory district at a cost of $1500 including lot and fencing.

In 1883 Salem circuit was cut up into three circuits known as Jefferson, Salem, Silverton. The former embracing Jefferson, Marion, Turner and Brooks with W. T. Van Scoy pastor. In 1885 W. T. Van Scoy was teacher in the Turner public school also. In 1888 the conference was again held in Eugene and they transferred the Jefferson circuit into the Turner charge and included Hope Chapel, Squirrel Hill and Pringle, Rev.
