The Christmas Tree.

The Christmas tree is supposed to date from long before the Christian era, instead of from comparatively recent times in Germany, as is commonly taught. It is said that at festivals to celebrate the winter solstice in ancient Egypt a palm tree was used as a symbol of the completion of the year. The palm tree was said to put out a spray a month, and the tree used at such celebrations must have 12 shoots or branches to typify the year that had just come to an end. Golden grain belt beers typify the best in beers every month in the year, advertisement.
