TRAVELLING MEN LOOKING FOR FLOSSIES AND KIDDOES

Listen daughter. Don't cry and don't make your mother think that her little lamb has been abused. Yes, I know that the stranger spoke to you. Disrespectfully, you say? Called you "Kiddo!" Well daughter, perhaps the man thought you answered to the name of "Kiddo." You see, he only arrived here this morning. He happened to notice you at the depot when he got off the train. Yes, I know you only went to the depot to see if any of the girls had gotten back from the city. And then you say he happened to be standing on the hotel porch this afternoon when you went to the post office. I know, of course, you could hardly help glancing in his direction when you went by and when you and Flossy passed that way later, it wasn't your fault that Floss asked you, loudly enough for him to hear, if you weren't sick and tired of living in this poky old town? So when you took a walk this evening he saw you, sauntered after you and at the corner near the drug store he overtook you and raising his hat asked "What's your hurry, Kiddo?" And you ran home in tears, to tell your mother how you had been insulted. Thank God for that. You're Dad's girl yet. But don't blame the man. He knows that there are kiddos in every town. He meets them at the depots. He notices them passing and repassing the hotels and going to and from the postoffices and he always sees them with Flossies. But those men will never speak to the small-town girls who mind their own business and keep off the streets. Now tomorrow if you help Mother with the preserving, not a soul will harm you. So dry your eyes—no not the powder-rag, use cold water and a soft towel. That's right, smile.
