THE CALL OF THE COUNTRY

Rural life offers to young men days of toil and nights of study. It offers frugal fare and plain clothes. It offers lean bodies, hard muscles, horny hands and furrowed brows. It offers wholesome recreation to the extent necessary to maintain the highest efficiency. It offers the burden of bringing up large families and training them in the productive life. It offers the obligations of using all wealth as tools and not as means of self-gratification. It does not offer the insult of a life of ease, or aesthetic enjoyment, or graceful consumption or emotional ecstasy. It offers, instead, the joy of productive achievement, of participating in the building up of a higher rural civilization.

To young women also it offers toil, study, frugal fare and plain clothes such as best those who are honored with a great and difficult task. It offers also the pains, the burdens and responsibilities of sacred motherhood. It offers the obligation and perpetuation in succeeding generations the principles of the productive life made manifest in themselves. It does not offer the insult of a life of pride and vanity. It offers the joys of achievement, of self-expression not alone in dead marble and canvas, but also in the plastic lives of children to be shaped and moulded into those ideal forms of mind and heart which their dreams have pictured.

Co-operative thinking is the biggest problem that confronts the farmer today.

Carranza Offers to Leave.
Mexico City.—General Oregon received a dispatch from Cordoba saying that General Carranza had made an offer to General Eulalio Gutierrez to turn over the military forces to General Gonzales and leave for Havana to arrive there not later than November 25, if General Villa would turn over his command to General Gutierrez and be in Havana the same date.

On Thursday evening, November 5, about 20 girl friends assembled at the home of Miss Effie Orcutt, bringing with them tokens of their esteem. The articles were placed in an umbrella extended from the archway. The bride to be was ushered in and seated beneath, and the contents fell in a shower around her.

The evening was spent with music, gaiety and an elegant luncheon. The table decorations were red and white. All voted it a most delightful evening.

On Friday evening, November 13, a pretty little shower was given at the home of Miss Verna Jaquish. The colors, pink and white, were carried out in house and table decorations. The rooms were decorated with chrysanthemums, with streams of white ribbon strung with pink hearts.

The bride to be was presented with a cloth basket in which to gather up the wash from the line, which was extended across the room. This consisted of many pretty linens.

After an evening of music, games and dancing a dainty pink and white luncheon was served.

It was sure a pleasant evening for those present.
