GRADUATE OF REED IS ONTARIO BOY

E. A. Trousdale, son of C. H. Trousdale local manager for the Western Union, was a member of the first class to graduate from Reed College, the newest of Oregon's educational institutions. The commencement exercises were held on the college campus in Portland last Saturday with David Starr Jordan of Stanford university as commencement speaker. There were forty four members of the class. Mr. Trousdale did his major work in the department of physics. He is a member of the American Physical Society and with Dr. Karl T. Compton, who will be assistant professor of Physics in Princeton next year, has published articles in Science and in Physical Review dealing with research work carried on at the college during the past year. He expects to teach Physics next year.

Considerable attention was paid by the Portland papers to the graduation exercises because they were the first at the college and because of the distinctive features connected with it. Each senior was required to pass a rigid oral examination, the board consisting of several members of the faculty and one or more persons not otherwise connected with the college. They were also required to write these covering some original work and file them in the library at the college before commencement day.

HOME PRINT BOOKS FOR STATE OF OREGON

Salem.—Offering arguments that if put into operation it would save to the parents of school children at least $50,000 annually, would keep in the state a similar amount which is expended elsewhere, would be a factor in increasing the demand for labor in the state, and numerous others, a committee appointed by Capital Typographical Union No. 210, of this city, will start active work at once to interest granges, civic organizations and commercial bodies in its plan to have the state publish the textbooks used in Oregon.

Grange paper was read by Miss Theodosia Wells. Mr. and Mrs. Keller, Misses Maud, LaVern and Flossie Keller were initiated in the four degrees. At a late hour a light luncheon was served.

Sunday School and Church were held at the Grange Hall, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brown of Ontario preached the sermon and next Sunday Mr. Pratt will deliver the sermon. A farewell surprise party was given Tuesday evening at the Grange Hall in honor of Miss Lulu Tompkins who left the next week for her former home in Oklahoma and for a visit with her sister in Iowa. Dancing and talking or visiting afforded the amusement for the evening and about midnight a dainty luncheon was served to the jolly crowd. Miss Tompkins has taught the Boulevard school the past two years and she will be greatly missed by all who know her.

MUST OBTAIN JOB BEFORE PAROLE

(Special to The Argus.)
Salem.—At its first official meeting, held at the penitentiary, the new parole board prepared rules which will govern its conduct, and announced certain policies different from those practiced in the prison in the past. Chief among the innovations is a rule that hereafter no prisoner will be recommended for parole by the board until some reliable person assures him employment. A similar rule is in force in California and other states. It was made one of the chief duties of the parole officer not only to watch over paroled men, but especially to assist them and aid them in obtaining and keeping employment.

Under the new law passed by the last legislature the parole board consists of the following ex-officio members: Warden Minto, of the penitentiary; Parole Officer Keller and G. P. Putnam, private secretary to Governor Withycombe. In addition the governor appoints two citizens. Thus far John F. Logan, of Portland, has been appointed, but the other member has not been chosen. Mr. Logan was elected chairman.

WILSON BROTHERS

"The Grocers"

"When It Strikes Home."
Grace Washburn in "When It Strikes Home" is the special attraction offered at the Dreamland Theatre Saturday night.

In this photoplay Dick Hartley hastily marries a dancing girl. As he is under age, his father, a wealthy man, objects to the marriage and succeeds in having it annulled. He sends the boy to South America.

A son is born to the divorced girl. When Dick Hartley returns from South America, he works hard in his father's office and in due time, forgetting his divorced wife, marries another girl.

The marriage is happy but childless. It chances that the dancing girl's little boy is adopted by young Mr. and Mrs. Hartley in ignorance of his origin.

Twenty years pass. The boy becomes a successful doctor working in a New York Hospital. The elder Hartley, father of Dick, meets with an accident and is taken to the hospital for treatment. In that hospital the dancing girl of twenty-one years before is now placed as Sister Ursula, vowed to a life of ministrations to the afflicted.

Old Hartley recognizes the former dancing girl in Sister Ursula, and she also recognizes her own son in the young Dr. Hartley.

But the ex-dancer voluntarily remains in the hospital, and thus the younger Hartley and his wife do not have their happiness menaced.
