CLUBROOT IN CABBAGES.

When cabbages, cauliflower, turnips or similar crops are grown repeatedly or in succession on the same piece of ground the roots of these vegetables are likely to become attacked by what is known as clubroot. In our older gardens we do not seem to have very much trouble from that source. Nor is there much danger in soils that contain a good proportion of lime. Lime applications are therefore often recommended as a means to head off the disease. The vegetables of this family should be kept out of any piece of ground where the disease has once made its appearance, at least for several years. If you set plants entirely free from infection and put them in a spot that was free from clubroot last year you will not be likely to have your plants injured or destroyed by this disease.

KILLING THE POTATO BEETLE

A good method is to mix the paris green with ten to twenty parts of cheap flour, sifted land plaster or air slaked lime before applying. It is always advisable to add lime (air slaked) to neutralize the soluble acid contained in paris green, and if this is done no injury will result. Large plants can be much more thoroughly treated by spraying. The paris green should be used at the rate of one pound in 100 gallons of water to which two pounds of fresh slaked lime have been added. It can be combined with bordeaux mixture, which is used to control blight, without the addition of the extra lime. Lead arsenate is replacing paris green in spraying potatoes, as in all other spraying with arsenicals. The paste lead arsenate should be used at the rate of three pounds in fifty gallons of water or the dry lead arsenate at the rate of one and one-half pounds in fifty gallons of water. The lead arsenate is less liable to injure foliage, sticks to the leaves much better than paris green, and one application is often as effectual as two or more of the latter. Poison should be applied as soon as the young larvae begin to hatch, and the number of applications to be given will depend upon the abundance of the pest as the season advances. Often only an occasional plant will be infested at first, and with a small amount of poison in a compressed air knapsack sprayer one can treat these in a short time. Frequently this will reduce the numbers so that no further treatment will be necessary. Dr. J. B. Smith of New Jersey recommends spraying potatoes as soon as the beetles begin to feed in order to kill these before the eggs are laid. B. H. Walden, Experiment Station, New Haven, Conn.

OREGON FARMERS TO FILL GAP

from southern California. But now that the European supply is likely to be cut off for one year or more and the Panama canal has been opened to traffic seed growing will become more of an industry with farmers of western Oregon. To Eradicate Garlic. Garlic is a bad pest on any farm, but is exceptionally so on a dairy farm because of the strong flavor it gives to the milk, says Farm and Fireside. A temporary expedient is to keep the cows off the infested pasture at least four hours before milking. This will greatly reduce the bad flavor. Then if the milk stands at least four hours the flavor may disappear altogether. Here is the best means of eradicating garlic altogether. First.—Four kerosene on the plant from an ordinary kerosene can. Do this before the garlic heads out. Soak the plants thoroughly. Second.—Carbolic acid applied in the same way is also effective. Third.—Dig the garlic out with a

WORK TEAMS AND WEATHER.

"If it rains for several days you do not stay in the house or in bed all the time, do you? "Certainly not; you have work to do. But if you had to stay in it would be bad for you. "It's just the same with the work teams. They need exercise in order to begin, when the weather clears, properly rested. "A pasture is the best place for them if it is not actually raining, and exercise in box stalls or under a covered shed in the barnyard will be almost as good. Let them stretch their legs."—Farm and Fireside.
