MONSTER BEETS GO
 30 TON PER ACRE

Adding cumulative evidence on the fertility of Malheur, county lands is the records turned in this week by Homer Rambo whose ranch is just south of the city, and Wm. L. Gibson, whose ranch is near Nyssa.

Mr. Rambo, last spring, planted 5 acres of sugar beets and has just corded up a crop amounting to 30 tons per acre. One big beet he brought to town Monday weighed just 26 pounds. He estimates that the crop from one acre will feed 1000 head of sheep for 15 days and is the very best and most economical feed he could possibly secure. The sugar beet is that which the ranchers of the Twin Falls region are using to profitable advantage for their sheep and that which has long been in use in England and Scotland. Judging from his experience Mr. Rambo declares that Malheur county alfalfa lands can raise sugar beets to immense advantage.

$600 Onion Crop on Half Acre.

Even more remarkable than Mr. Rambo's beet crop is the onion crop raised by Mr. Gibson. On a half acre, which was enriched by heavy fertilization he secured 248 sacks of red onions. These he sold at two and one-fourth cents per pound and netted nearly $600 on the crop. County Agricultural Agent W. W. Howard declares that Mr. Gibson's success is a positive demonstration of what the land in this section will do when fertilized by cattle.

That Mr. Gibson is convinced of value of the crop is indicated by the fact that he intends to plant 10 acres next year.

W. E. LEES RETURNS FROM EASTERN TRIP

Attorney W. E. Lees returned last Friday from a short business trip to Chicago, Toledo and points in Ohio where he went on business.

"One of the outstanding things noted in the trip," he said, "is the constantly increasing price of food stuffs and the prosperity of the country. Everywhere the same story is told of good business conditions, and with it comes the story of increased prices for all kinds of farm produce. An example of what food prices are may be gained from the fact that potatoes are selling at three and a quarter cents per pound in Toledo and Chicago, and dealers expect them to go still higher. In Ohio the crops were good so that the farmers as well as the manufacturers are enjoying good times."

LOCALS OVERWHELM NAMPA ON SATURDAY

their coach witnessed the game Saturday but had little opportunity to see anything but straight football for with the game safe the local mentor ordered the boys to keep all formations under cover.

The game with Weiser will be played here next Friday afternoon and will be the big game of the season. For this game the locals are working hard to develop their latent power. The men both in the back field and the line demonstrated they have the ability and the power.

Prior to the big game the local grade school boys played the Payette second team and lost 27 to 0.

The line up of the Ontario and Nampa teams was:

GILHAM MIXES ISSUES.

Last week the Argus published in this column a letter from C. A. Gilham, an employee in the county assessor's office. This communication contained matter entirely outside of the business of the assessor or his office; seemed to be a bitter attack on the editor of the Malheur Enterprise and a vicious attack on the county court.

The editor of the Argus is still a comparative stranger in the county and does not pretend to pass upon the relative merits of the war between county officials, though we might mention incidentally that the wise or unwise expenditure of money by the court has nothing to do with the irregularities of the assessment roll.

We have been at pains to investigate some phases of this matter of assessments and roll and find no statement made by the Enterprise to be untrue in so far as concerns the roll; in fact these statements are of record and any citizen can verify them.

We note that the present incumbent of the assessor's office stated at the taxpayers meeting that he favored mortgage assessments, and that the only reason they were not on the roll was because the board of equalization would take them off. Here then is one apparent fundamental cause of the war between Hill and McKnight. Hill wants to double assess the farmer and the county clerk and McKnight stand together to prevent it.

The avowed determination expressed in the Gilham letter to over-assess the property of one class does not speak well for justice. The road company, so severely dealt with, by Gilham in his letter, financed the Shoestring ditch; is willing to finance, if necessary, other irrigation enterprises; is selling its land just as rapidly as it can find buyers, and has passed its assessments for years, without protest, until this year and is therefore damned by Gilham.

We care little about the abuse of the Enterprise by Gilham and feel that the readers of the Argus can see thru the play. It is merely dust which is used to cover the glaring absurdities of the assessment roll.

Attacking the county court is more dust for they have not a thing to do with the assessment of property. Expenditures by the county court are without the jurisdiction of the assessor's office and have not a thing to do with the assessment roll.

If either Mr. Hill or his deputy desire to combat these expenditures they should go before the court at the proper time and show them where to lop off and what to reduce. This is their duty as citizens; but it is also their duty to attend to their own business of properly assessing the property. It occurs to us that the county would be better off had all hands attended the duties of their respective offices.

It is evident that incompetency exists and a desire to administer the affairs outside is rife in the assessor's office. Such officials might well be retired to private life. The opportunity now exists to retire the assessor and when they again come up for re-election taxpayers can use their axe on other troublesome members of the official family should they so desire.

Just now, however, let us attend to the business in hand. Neither the county judge nor the Malheur Enterprise are running for office. Hill is the only candidate who believes in the square deal and who believes in a square deal. If we support him we cannot see.
