

TREATIES DO NOT PROTECT FORCED TRAINING NEEDED

Peace-at-Any-Price Campaign Has Nearly Killed Patriotism, Says Chamberlain.

There was a time when our isolation protected us. Our increasing commerce now makes us need other protection.

In the last analysis, the trouble between Great Britain and Germany is commercial trouble.

A treaty is worth little as practical protection. I voted for the 31 treaties of peace the United States has, but I have no confidence in them when a nation wants something, it finds a way to break the contract.

The American people need real protection, but their temper will not tolerate a standing army.

The alternative is universal military training; a citizen soldiery that can be depended upon in time of trouble is the thing.

Senator George E. Chamberlain, U. S. senator from Oregon and chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, made the foregoing observations during an address on "Universal Military Training" to the students of the state university last week. The university is contemplating the establishment of military drill, and Senator Chamberlain said he thought a U. S. army instructor would be available by February.

Senator Chamberlain thinks compulsory military training is soon to come in the United States. "A majority of the senate committee on military affairs favors it. A majority of the magazine writers favors it. A number of the advanced eastern schools are instituting it," he said.

The democracy of universal training was cited by the senator, who pointed to the make-up of the regular army and of the national guard regiments that went to the Mexican border. "Why should you give up your $50 to $150 a month job when the man with the silver spoon fails to do it?" he asked.

The peace-at-any-price propaganda has nearly destroyed the patriotic spirit of this country, he said. "In a military sense, we are laughed at the world over, not only because we have no standing army, but because we have no trained men."

Senator Chamberlain talked frankly of possible future trouble with Japan. "We have across the Pacific a race that is not friendly to the United States, and that will not permit the United States to assume a position of racial superiority," he said. The students applauded his utterances.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

Leslie Blades Takes Classes of English Professor Who is Ill.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Nov. 20.—Although without sight, Leslie Blades is conducting three classes in English at the University of Oregon. Mr. Blades was graduated last June, and is taking post-graduate work. He is considered an unusually good student. His teaching opportunity came when W. F. G. Tacher, professor of English, fell ill of pneumonia, and a substitute had to be found for part of his work. The head of the department chose Mr. Blades, who continues to handle the classes during Mr. Tacher's convalescence.

Mr. Blades uses raised letters for his class notes. His home is in San Dimas, Cal.

FORMER HARNEY BOY
NOW IN BRITISH CAMP

O. Nyström, who until a few years ago lived on a ranch near Harney lake in Harney county, is now a private in the 16th Platoon, D company, 238 Battalion C. E. F. With his company he is encamped at Surey, England, preparing to go to the front in France or elsewhere in the war zone.

In a letter to Thos. L. Davis of Davis & Williams, sheepmen, Mr. Nyström tells the story of his enlistment in the Canadian over-seas forces and of life in England. Among other things he says the people of the mother country are treating the Colonials splendidly. In the soldier clubs the waiters, he says, are all "high toned" ladies who work without pay so that they may "do their bit" to aid the cause. He also relates that he found life in busy London a bit different than that on the sage brush plains of Harney county.

DEATH CLAIMS RESIDENT OF ST. PAUL ORCHARD TRACT

Albert Preston Adams, aged 62, one of the citizens of the community at the St. Paul orchard tract six miles west of Ontario, died last Thursday at his home. He was born in Henry county, Indiana. He was married to Miss Hannah Thomas September 16, 1884. To them were born four children, two of whom survive him, Wilbur and Floyd Adams who live near their parents home.

Mr. Adams left the old home in Indiana eleven years ago going to Oklahoma, and after a stay of seven years came to Oregon and settled on the place where he lived and died.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. E. Baker Saturday afternoon at the Lincoln school house and interment was made in the Ontario cemetery.

Hay Seeds For Confetti.

Weddings in China are arranged by "go-between's"—usually the busy old women of the district—who get a commission on the amount paid by the bride-son to the father of the bride. On the wedding day the bride is clad in red and carried in a sedan chair covered with red. Anybody has a right to turn back the chair curtains and take a look at her. Her hair is elaborately oiled, and so all the other girls throw hayseeds at her, which stick. On reaching the home of her husband the bride has to submit to the candid criticisms of the entire family. The strange wedding ceremony consists in the husband and wife eating rice from each other's bowl. Of course there is a feast, but it does not cost much, for every guest is expected to contribute something.

ANTI TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY SURVEYS STATE

With its request for co-operation in making the 1916 Red Cross Seal sale the most successful in state history and its announcement of "Tuberculosis Sunday" which will be observed either December 3 or 10, the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis brings a record of accomplishment which justifies the original declaration that "every seal sold is a bullet in the war against the Great White Plague."

Efficient organization, low administrative cost and personal service freely given by public spirited citizens have combined to make every dollar contributed toward the work of the association practically do the work of two.

"Tuberculosis Sunday" furnishes a reason for definitely carrying the now state-wide debate for preventive effort against the disease and adequate care of the stricken into every pulpit and before every church audience of Oregon. It will be made a time, too, for gratitude and thankfulness because of the great economic and humanitarian value of the results obtained.

The Oregon association for the prevention of tuberculosis has commenced a survey of the state, county by county. The surveys in Lane, Clatsop, Jackson, Josephine and Washington counties have been completed. Results will be announced in detail when the work is done.

The survey has already proven that by its means information never before gathered will be tabulated. The facilities or lack of facilities for the care, treatment, and prevention of tuberculosis in each county will be shown. The number of cases will be listed and segregated as to whether they are incipient, moderately advanced or far advanced, and also as to the number of cases reported before the survey and the number reported as a direct result of it. The survey will provide for each county a history of the disease in that county, indicating its increase or decrease how many of the afflicted contracted the trouble within the county and the number that had the disease when they moved into the county. Then it will be shown how tuberculosis is distributed as to cities, towns and rural communities. Cities and towns having city hospitals, clinics and dispensaries, school inspection, and open air rooms will be designated.

The county's care of tuberculosis patients in such institutions as jails, and poor farms will be discussed and whether the county has a relief board and what assistance is granted in tuberculosis cases.

The survey is definite and thorough and its value to all health and public officials will be so great that the work has the hearty approval and full co-operation of the Oregon State Board of Health.

The proceeds of this year's sale of Red Cross seals will be used to carry on the survey and to maintain the preventive work organized by the association.
