It can be prevented by strict economy in the kitchen and buying by the substituting of the more plentiful foods, and by conserving by dry-lugand canning the large quantities of fruits and vegetables that ordinarily go to waste. Mr. Howard states that demonstrations in canning and drying would be held in Ontario in a short time by representatives of the State Agricultural College.

DRY FEEDING CATTLE.

Advantages of This Method of Handling Over Pasturing the Animals.

At the recent meeting of the Kankakee County (Ill.) Pure Bred Cattle Breeders' association visitors were given an opportunity of comparing the benefit of the so-called dry feeding over that of pasture for cattle, says the Orange Judd Farmer.

E. M. Wright of Manteno exhibited two herds, one which had been raised on blue grass pasture after they were large enough and another which had been fed on silage, alfalfa, hay and cotton seed and which had never run on pasture in their lives. At the age of twenty-two months the herd of eleven cattle which had been dry fed averaged 1,400 pounds each, and at the same age the herd of cattle which had run on good blue grass pasture averaged a little less than 1,100 pounds each.

The following is the diet of the calf until he is large enough to eat the dry feed: One pound of red dog flour, one pound of soluble blood flour, one pound of ground hominy meal and one pound of linseed meal mixed together in one gallon of water for one feed. The demonstration showed that more cattle could be raised by this method on fewer acres of land than by the old pasture method.

MEASURES OF CONTROL FOR DOCK FALSE WORM

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

A green worm, known as the dock false worm, which causes considerable damage to apple crops, is found throughout the northern section of the United States and is noticeably prevalent in the state of Washington. The insect feeds upon certain succulent plants such as the docks, knotweeds and biadweeds. When these occur in an orchard the worm makes its way up the trunk of the tree and burrows into the fruit, causing it to rot. There can be little or no danger from this insect in clean cultivated orchards or in orchards where its food plants do not exist. However, where a perennial cover crop such as alfalfa is grown other control measures must be taken.

The work of the dock false worm in apples is shown in the accompanying illustration. Preventive methods against this orchard pest, recommended by the United States department of agriculture, consists in banding the trees.

Efficient protection may be secured by banding the trees with cotton batting or with some sticky substance. In experiments by the department an eight inch strip of cotton batting was placed about the trunk of each tree and tied with a cord about the middle. The upper half of the cotton band was then rolled down over the cord. Good results also were obtained by applying to the trunks of the trees a band of a commercial sticky substance one-eighth inch thick and three inches wide. The lower limbs of the trees should be kept well up from the ground, and any props used also should be banded. Bands should be put on in the latter part of August and left on until after the fruit is harvested.

What He Missed.
There's no use talking about it, when you get the public to the point where it understands one kind of art you ought to lead it by easy stages to the next higher variety. Don't spring it all at once on them. A few days ago we said to a friend of ours:
"Saw you going over to the Art museum yesterday. How did you like it?"
"Oh, the pictures were pretty good," he answered, "but there weren't any jokes under them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The first payments on the Red Cross pledges was due Sunday. The local officials of the Red Cross are somewhat at sea as to the manner of procedure to care for collections. There are over 600 pledges on the partial payment system and it will be a task to keep the records straight.

Don't Mutilate Your Coins.

It is a crime to mutilate or deface gold or silver coins, and if you were to ask a jeweler even to punch a hole in a $5 gold piece so that you could carry it on your watch chain you probably would be told to go about your business. Yet, strangely enough, if you were to mutilate a gold piece until it had lost all resemblance to a coin you would not be punished. What the government aims at is to prevent the impairment of the value of its gold and silver tokens by plugging, drilling, "sweating" and other processes. It is unlawful to cut even a monogram on either a gold or silver coin.—New York Mail.

NEW METHOD FOUND BY WHICH TO STORE EGGS

Fleming Egg Preserver Without Crooks, Without Water, Without Trouble Will Keep Eggs Nice and Fresh

In these days of threatened food shortage anything that will help prevent waste, is worthy of investigation. Now when eggs are comparatively cheap is the time in which to store them by some proven method. The trouble with most of the systems of storing eggs is that they demand special containers, can not be moved about and when once the package is opened the eggs must be used at once.

This is not true of the Fleming Egg Preserver, a substance which keeps the eggs fresh for months. The Fleming invention is a simple paste, it is easily used and when once applied the eggs maintain all their value until used. Unlike most stored eggs, those preserved by the Fleming method may be served for every purpose that strictly fresh eggs are used.

Since the government officials are urging everyone to store eggs and to dry vegetables, it is interesting to know that the Fleming Egg Preserver has been endorsed by many of the best Agricultural Colleges to which samples have been sent for experimental purposes. If you desire to learn more about its simple use write the Fleming Egg Producer Co., Vale, Oregon, or call on the local stores where it is for sale.

Carl Gamble of the Tribune force at Caldwell was in Ontario Sunday.

M. E. Bain returned Saturday from Spokane where he spent the first of the week on business.
