

HOLY ROSARY HOSPITAL FILLED WITH PATIENTS

Owing to the prevalence of typhoid fever in this and surrounding cities the Holy Rosary Hospital of this city is crowded to over capacity with patients. These however are not all typhoid patients, but includes many with various other complaints. While the capacity of the hospital is considerable, yet it has been necessary to place patients in the parlor, the office and the baby room.

So far as known no casualty has occurred as a result of the fever, the city physicians and the hospital corps seeming to be most successful in coping with the disease.

Sister Thomas of the hospital corps who has been afflicted with typhoid for the past two weeks is improving nicely.

Mrs. George McClain, a patient from this city who is suffering with the typhoid, is recovering.

Mrs. W. L. Hazeltine, a patient from this city who is suffering with the typhoid, is recovering.

Mrs. P. H. Ennis of Westfall left the hospital Monday for her home after a siege of typhoid.

Mrs. Estelle Conway of this city who has been seriously ill with the fever is now improving nicely.

Thomas, the little nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Payne of Westfall, who was in the hospital suffering from an affliction of the knee, was released last week, being much improved.

Maggie Beeghly of Fruitland returned to her home Wednesday after having undergone an operation from which she had recovered.

Mrs. G. W. Frakes of this city is improving nicely after having undergone an operation for the removal of gall stones.

Jack Clifford of Ironside, an unfortunate but cheerful patient who has been in the hospital for some time suffering from a broken leg which heals slowly, is improving. This case is of particular interest since the young man has met with misfortune before when he underwent a paralytic stroke which left one hand and one leg crippled, but this did not prevent his working a ranch as successfully as his neighbor. A recent accident while engaged in his work caused the breaking of both legs and the paralyzed limb has been slow in healing, but in spite of his misfortunes the patient is said to be the embodiment of sunshine.

On October 6th a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Wilber at the hospital. Mrs. Nelson was sufficiently recovered as to be able to leave the hospital Wednesday of this week.

Gladys Logan, the sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Logan of Brogan, underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils and adenoids on October 6 and recovered soon after the operation so that she could be taken to her home.

F. G. Mortenson who resides in the rural district of Ontario took treatment two days when he returned to his home greatly improved.

Mrs. Olive Goff of Vale underwent a successful operation for appendicitis on the seventh day of October and has recovered sufficiently to be taken home Thursday of this week.

Roscoe Tilson of this city is a more recent victim of typhoid at the hospital and is doing nicely.

B. B. Wood, of Ontario, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday, has recovered so far as to return to his home Wednesday.

C. A. Smith, of Baker, who suffered the fracture of an arm while picking apples at Fruitland last Friday, left the hospital Wednesday although his arm continues quite painful.

Mrs. D. N. Taggart of Ontario, who submitted to the removal of her tonsils last Saturday, is still a patient at the hospital, but is doing nicely.

Jack, the little three-year-old son of Mrs. Mattie Surder of Westfall who was taken to the hospital last Saturday suffering with typhoid fever, is doing nicely.

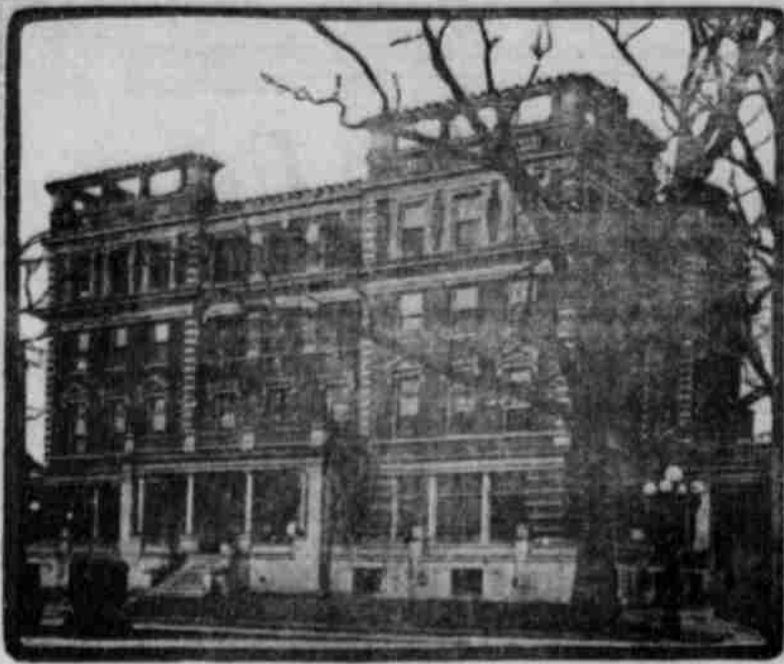

Monday night occurred the death of Miss L. C. Beardsley, who was brought to the hospital from Payette Sunday suffering from a malignant case of gall stones.

Mrs. A. J. Watson was admitted to the hospital Sunday night from Payette suffering from an attack of typhoid and is also improving.

E. A. Daniel, of Crystal, Idaho, underwent an operation Sunday from which he is recovering nicely.

Mrs. Chas. White of Fruitland is another particularly interesting case, she suffering from some malady which eight months ago caused her to go blind and a week ago she became totally deaf and now she is suffering acutely with rheumatism.

Erling Field of Ontario was a typhoid fever patient to be admitted Tuesday of this week.

Good Old Southern Hospitality
Awaits Westerners in Charlotte.
Where Every Available Accommodation is Being Planned By Citizens.

Charlotte awaits the coming of the troops from the Western States with open arms and their friends and relatives as well. Their homes will be thrown open to them. The Southern hospitality which is somewhat notably known throughout the nation will be plentifully exercised toward these soldiers who spend a little while here before going into the arduous and dangerous labors of the trenches. The people of Charlotte are planning now to put within reach of the troops every available accommodation. Public drinking fountains are being installed, rest and comfort rooms in the hotels, restaurants, church basements, public buildings and empty store rooms will be provided and the soldiers will have an opportunity from time to time to take a meal in the homes of the leading citizens of the community. They will be made to feel that they have not "fallen among thieves" but among their friends.

In addition to what is being done for them by the commission for training camp activities, this commission having for its business chiefly the entertainment and comfort of the men, the provision of attractive entertainments, etc., but the Young Men's Christian Association will extend its beneficent influence toward making the stay of the men here pleasant and profitable. And in addition to all of these organized agencies, the individual citizens of Charlotte will hold back from the visiting guardsmen nothing that will tend to give them a taste of Southern hospitality and feel the warmth and cordiality of the welcome generally felt for them into this community, for a time to be their home.

Charlotte Socially and Religiously.

Charlotte is recognized as one of the most religious cities in the world. This broad statement is substantiated by the records which show that a greater proportion of the adult population of the community attends divine worship than in any other city in this country and only one in the world exceeds it, that being Edinburgh, Scotland. The Christian charity of the city is notable. It shows itself in ample support given to those organizations having for their purpose the physical and moral and spiritual uplift of the people. It maintains a number of splendid hospitals, the most recent acquisition in this line being the conversion of the plant of the former Elizabeth College into a Presbyterian Hospital, the sum of $250,000 being applied to the purchase of this property which lies in a wooded area of 20 acres on the outskirts of the city.

Educationally, Charlotte is not slothful. Its public school registration numbers over 7,000 pupils and in addition there are numerous private schools for the training of the young. Horner's Military Academy is one of the chief of these, being one of the oldest and most widely recognized in the State. Charlotte is the home of Queens College, the largest and best-equipped institution maintained by the Southern Presbyterian church of the South.

Records on file in the United States census bureau offices at Washington indicate that a higher percentage of the people of Charlotte own the homes they occupy than in any other city of the nation. The chief reason, perhaps, for this condition is that there is a far less proportion of alien-born population in this community than in any other section of the South. Less than one-half of one per cent of the total population of Charlotte is foreign-born. The other reason is the presence here of successful and ably-managed building and loan associations, four of them through which thousands of residents are paying weekly or monthly for the houses in which they are living.

Within latter years Charlotte has made tremendous strides as a jobbing center. The reason of its geographical location, being equidistant from the sandhills and the mountain regions of the State and the central point in the two Carolinas accounts for the rapid growth of this business. The element of transportation has not been the least of the conducive reasons that Charlotte has maintained such a uniform growth in this direction. It is at present the extreme Southern city to which from the main headquarters in Washington a double track system prevails on the Southern Railroad, the leading Southern transportation system.

Charlotte boasts the finest suburban developments of any city in the Carolinas. The launching of Myers Park, formerly an open area of 3,000 acres immediately adjacent to the city limits, financed by millionaires and converted into a residential section of surpassing beauty, has added chiefly in giving this city the name and distinction of being a distinctive residential city and one, too, of elegant dwellings. On every side of the city proper, large suburban developments have sprung up within the last ten years and the drift of population is away from the constricted centers which are rapidly yielding to the centrifugal influences of a commercial growth, making it necessary for the residences to push themselves toward the outskirts of the city.

Industrially, Charlotte ranks above any of its competitors in the Carolinas both for the variety and the magnitude of its commercial enterprises.

This is indeed a most unusual season. Transportation lines crowded to capacity in all directions---mills operating night and day on government supplies and every indication that woolen goods will become scarcer and more difficult to obtain as the season advances. Anticipating just such conditions as these, we took on our winter goods during the months of May, June and July--goods that we contracted for months and months ago, and today we are showing complete lines of woolens at prices that show hardly a perceptible advance over what you paid a year ago.
