HUNDREDS SEATED AT BIG ANNUAL BANQUET

bers, to review each and give its measure of praise would take columns of space, but the mere naming of the performers will suffice to indicate the character of the entertainment: piano solo, Miss Notz, Baker; vocal solo, Miss Riley, Caldwell; solo, E. N. Strong, Portland; solo, Mrs. F. C. Oxman, Ontario; reading to music, Mrs. J. A. Hoskins, Baker; double quartette from Baker with Miss Zelma Jackson, soloist; duet, Messrs. Deaham and Boyer, Baker; and the closing number was a vocal solo by James G. Smith, after which he led in the singing of the national anthem.

The list of toasts was seemingly long, but the wit and fervor of the speakers and the sincere patriotic note which was ever manifest served to keep the attention of the audience throout. A happy start was made in the selection of Mrs. William Daughtery of Portland as the "first over the top" in a sparkling address in which, "economize, Hooverize and sacrifice" were the principles pled for she started the speaking program eloquently.

It would require reams to tell all of the speeches, and relate all the stories told, but it is certain that many of the banquet talkers were never in better form. In view of the enjoyment which the meat course gave, S. O. Correll, the secretary of the association, voiced the sentiment of every man when he declared that "after eating that roast, I've vowed never to chase another chicken so long as live."

William Pollman, president of the association, pleased Ontarians by his sincere thanks of the good times enjoyed during the convention; Walter Pierce was eloquent in his toast to "Old Glory," J. H. Upton and P. J. Gallagher rivaled each other as boosters for their home towns, Prineville and Ontario; Duncan Dunn of Wapato took the honors as prize story teller; Messrs. Felton and Faville of the Oregon Farmer and the Western Farmer, respectively added their efforts to the list; Geo. C. McMullin of Kansas City told how a guest from afar enjoyed the stay here, and E. D. Cusick of Albany gave a Webster's appreciation, while Judge Dalton Biggs, Attorney J. W. McCulloch and Mayor W. F. Homan spoke in happy veins. R. N. Stanfield, of Stanfield, discussed the growth of the livestock business. G. K. Aiken presided as toastmaster.
