PEOPLE ASKED FOR FLOUR DONATIONS

Freewill Offering of Excess Stocks Is Requested.

MEN OVERSEAS NEED GRAIN

Plan Devised to Save Transportation and Time—Local Donations to Be Resold Locally But Release Equal Amount at Atlantic Seaboard For Immediate Shipment to Allies and Troops.

Opportunity is now offered, through Federal Food Administrator W. B. Ayer, for Oregon families and manufacturing firms using wheat flour, to make a voluntary personal sacrifice for the benefit of Uncle Sam's boys in the Army and Navy. Mr. Ayer has announced that any family, public eating place, or factory using wheat flour, such as bakeries and cracker factories, now has the privilege of directly contributing to the flour bins of the Army and Navy by turning back to the government, at the market price, such portion of their wheat flour allowance as they will patriotically refrain from consuming themselves.

Such gifts of wheat flour, while not going directly to France for the boys overseas, will be turned into the government commissary at the nearest point, and will release an equal quantity of wheat flour on the Atlantic seaboard for immediate shipment "over there." Under this novel plan when a patriotic Oregon family goes on a wheatless diet for a week or a month, or longer period, the wheat flour they save and turn back to the government actually represents an equivalent of wheat flour three thousand miles away, which immediately starts to move forward to the fighting forces. This arrangement has been made in order to save transportation across the continent.

"I am hoping for a splendid wheat-saving record in Oregon" said Mr. Ayer the other day. "For I believe when Oregon families and public eating places in the state know that the flour they save will go direct to the boys of the Army and Navy they will not hesitate to respond in the usual patriotic Oregon way. I had a telegram from Mr. Hoover today in which he asked me for an estimate on what I thought Oregon could be relied upon to save under the new plan. I wished to be conservative, and I replied that my estimate would be 50 to 35 per cent of the normal wheat flour consumption. This is a much lower estimate than other states had made, and I realize that it will probably be unsatisfactory at Washington. I am hoping that the people of the state will exceed this estimate by a generous margin. The county administrators have in hand the full details of the plan for saving wheat in this way for the needs of our fighting men, and any one wishing to personally contribute wheat flour should get in touch at once with the Food Administrator of the county in which he or she lives."

The wheat-saving plan announced by Mr. Ayer is a national one, and it is now operative in all the states. The states of Washington, Idaho and Oregon are now co-operating in an effort to make a big wheat-saving record for the Northwest. Federal Food Administrators R. F. Bicknell of Idaho and Charles Hebbard of Washington join with Federal Food Administrator W. B. Ayer for Oregon in the following announcement, which gives in detail the plan of handling the returned wheat:

"Mr. Hoover has wired all Federal Food Administrators that the excess stocks of flour held by public eating places, bakers, dealers and consumers may be voluntarily surrendered for the use of the Army and Navy and the Allies. This action has been prompted by the many voluntary offerings from different parts of the country.

"The practical method of handling such returned flour will be through the local merchant, who is hereby requested to receive all such flour and pay the holding consumer the actual cost of same, and then re-distribute it without any additional charge to the ultimate consumer. Where merchants accumulate more than their thirty days' supply and all hotels, bakers, etc., that have an excess amount that cannot be disposed of locally, they should immediately communicate with Mr. M. H. Houser, Grain Commissioner of the Food Administration, Board of Trade Building, Portland, and he will arrange for the transportation to the seaboard. All flour returned to the merchant that is resold to the consumer should be reported to Mr. Houser, in order that an equal amount may be released for shipment to the Allies.

"The whole object of the above arrangement is to provide a channel through which all excess quantities of flour may reach the Army and Navy or the Allied armies as a voluntary offering of the people of this country."

If you have a food conservation plan or recipe pass it on to your neighbors and your friends—be "in the service."

- OREGON FACTS
1. Oregon fruits world-famous for quality, beauty and delicious flavor.
 2. Fishing industry ranks high, especially salmon, but it also produces splendid sea fish, as well as oysters, clams, crabs, etc.
 3. Furnishes finest wool in America, and is a leading sheep producer.
 4. Large production of cattle and hogs, having abundant native forage.
 5. Oregon flax equals that grown in Ireland and Belgium.
 6. Claims highest yield of grains and potatoes per acre.
 7. Grows 50% of the hops raised in the United States.
 8. Has 283,302,378,000 board measure feet of timber on private lands.
 9. Has 190,835,531,000 board measure feet of timber in national forests and large quantity in national parks and Indian lands.
 10. Tremendous industrial development possible through the fact that one-third of undeveloped water power in the United States is available in Columbia River basin.

THIS STATE MUST MAKE FULL PREPARATIONS FOR "BACK TO LAND" MOVEMENT.

GET READY FOR THE WAR'S END

Oregon is one of the wonder communities in the galaxy of Pacific states. It is an empire in itself. Heretofore it has been noted for its fruits—and Oregon fruits are world-famous for quality, beauty and delicious flavor—but diversified farming is rapidly being mastered. The climatic conditions are being understood and the future of Oregon is one of the most promising.

No one thinks of Oregon without thinking of its fishing industry, especially the salmon industry, but Oregon also furnishes splendid sea fish, as well as oysters, clams, crabs, etc.

This state is one of the largest producers of sheep in the country, and Oregon wool is recognized as the finest produced in America. An abundance of native forage crops has resulted in a large production of cattle and hogs.

Flax a Profitable Crop.
Oregon flax is another profitable crop, this product being equal to that grown in Ireland and Belgium. Hops is another of the important yields of Oregon, and it is estimated that 50 per cent of the hops raised in the United States is grown here. The productivity of the land is unusual and its state authorities claim that it produces the highest yield of grains and potatoes per acre. Whether or not the exact figures would substantiate this claim, the mere fact that production in this state is so great as to make such a claim plausible insures that its land is among the richest.

Oregon has uncultivated timber in an almost unmeasurable amount, running into the hundreds of billions of board feet, both on private lands and in national forests, national parks and Indian lands.
Water Power Means Much to State.
One of the most important features of Oregon's future lies in the fact that there is available, though undeveloped, approximately one-third of the total water power of the United States to be found in the Columbia River basin. This fact becomes especially important in view of the recent recommendation of President Wilson, that steps should be taken to conserve and develop and bring into use the wonderful possibilities of this water power.

Millions of Acres Available.
Millions of acres of land that have never known the feel of the plow are waiting for the home-seeker in the great Empire States of the Trans-Mississippi West, and in the states that face the Pacific Ocean.

Many of these acres are in the dry-farming sections, many of them can be brought under irrigation ditches.

In addition to this "wild" land, there are many acres in these states, now cultivated in large tracts, which with the ever westward pushing of those who seek new lands will, in the next few years, be cut up into smaller farms.

When the tremendous tragedy of the world now being enacted in blood and suffering upon the fair fields of France, comes finally to an end, the longing for the open country will take an even greater hold upon the hearts of mankind. Then this great country in the West should be in position to respond to this longing, should be ready to receive those who will seek its welcome.

Oregon must do its part. Every agency in the state should be directed to this end. In preparation for this day every facility should be used to acquaint those who now are looking for a new home in the West, and every organization that is working to secure the upbuilding of the West should be encouraged.

Union Pacific System On the Job.
One of the most active organizations especially maintained for work of this character, an organization admirably equipped with resources and backed with a thorough knowledge and system, is the Colonization and Industrial Bureau of the Union Pacific System.

of the states which are served by the Union Pacific System, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada. This exhibit, which was prepared and installed through co-operation with the public authorities in each of these states, is to be maintained and kept constantly renewed by the Union Pacific System as the foundation of the work which it carries on for the purpose of bringing new settlers and home-seekers into the West.

Bureau Has No Land for Sale.
The Colonization & Industrial Bureau has no land to sell, and its only interest in the sale of land by those who have it, is the building up of the territory which it serves. In other words, its interest is the bringing together of the land and those who would make new homes upon the land. For that reason expert agents of this Bureau investigate thoroughly all land that is offered for sale and all land agents. These experts satisfy themselves that the land is suitable for farming, that the climatic conditions are right and that the price at which it is offered is reasonable; next they satisfy themselves that the land agent is honest and reliable. There is no need to fool men in order to get them to settle in the West—the truth is strong enough.

Ads Carried in Eastern Papers.
A very extensive advertising campaign in the Eastern states, the Southern states and the States of the Mississippi Valley enables this Bureau to get in touch with those who want facts about the West, and as soon as its representatives learn what section of the country most appeals to the prospect he is turned over to the trustworthy land agents operating in that section.

These land agents take up the work from there on and the records of the Bureau show that the work has been most successful.

During the last year the advertising by the Union Pacific System reached a circulation of more than five million readers a month. There were received nearly ten thousand inquiries and there are records of 2,482 carloads of home-built goods moved into and through the various states listed above, during six months of this period.

This does not include those who came into the West without shipping their household goods, and there are many who sell out all such property before moving. Neither does it include those who went overland in automobiles and there are many of them too. So it would seem that here is proof of the effectiveness of the plan worked out by the Union Pacific System.
