ALASKA MAY HAVE A FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Alaska may have a fuel administrator of its own. The Territorial Council of Defense of Alaska has made the request and in this connection points out that Alaska, in spite of its vast undeveloped coal fields, has been an importer of fuel, from Washington and from British Columbia. At present the fuel administrator of the state of Washington has jurisdiction over Alaska.

METHODIST CHURCH.

10:00 a. m.: Sunday School.

11:00 a. m.: Preaching; subject: "The Struggling God."

Mr. Wells in "Mr. Britling Sees It Through" thinks that he has made a great theological discovery when he discovers that God is still working to make the world perfect. But St. Paul made this discovery in the first century.

8:00 p. m. If the weather is warm we will hold an open air service on the church lawn.

Sunday, June 16, will be observed as Children's Day. A suitable service will be held at 11:00 a. m.

Rev. Earl Hanna, Pastor.

EVERYBODY SAVE MEAT, TOO

Food Administrator Says We Must Cut Down on Meat as well as Wheat.

How about your meat ration? The Food Administration wishes to jog your memory in case you have forgotten that you should now be on a meat ration of not more than two pounds per person per week.

"We have abolished all our meatless and even our porkless days," says Assistant Federal Food Administrator W. K. Newell, "but this was on the distinct condition that we cut our consumption of meat to two pounds per person per week. If we are to avoid the re-establishment of meatless days we must now eat more fish and vegetables and go easy on all the meats. This is because our meat reserve is getting low. For a time, because of lack of ships to send the meat overseas, and because our food animals were moving to the markets in heavy volume, our meat reserve accumulated; that was why the meatless days were declared off by the Food Administration. Now conditions are changing. The food animals, with grazing for feed, are not moving so rapidly to the markets, and we are getting more ships for the export of meat. So our reserve is getting low. We must build it up. Eliminate your steaks and roasts and help pile up the meat reserve for our armies and our Allies. This should be easy for everyone at this time of year, with plenty of fresh vegetables and a wide variety of fish. Your physician will tell you it will also be good for your health. Because of these good things you can save meat without any real sacrifice. Let no one fail to do his or her share towards building up our national meat reserve. If you are not already on the official two-pound per week ration, correct this at once for it is very important."

NOTICE TO PATRONS.

The undersigned banks ask their customers to kindly conform to the new banking hours that will go into effect

Monday, June 10, 1918, for on and after that date our business hours will be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

The banks are so busy, not merely attending to their own business, but handling the work incident to Liberty Bond drives, Red Cross, War stamps, and any and all war aids, that our working forces must have an opportunity to take care of these patriotic requirements. With such a large volume of unusual work, our employees are entitled to shorter banking hours so that they may not continually be overworked.

Trusting that the public will see and appreciate our viewpoint and action and assist us by coming to the banks between 9 and 3, we will be between those hours give you prompt and efficient service.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, ONTARIO NATIONAL BANK.

ADRIAN NEWS NOTES

The Adrian service flag is on display now at the Big Bend store. Its colors show the patriotic spirit of this community on the Third Liberty Loan Bonds.

The ball game at the park Sunday was won by Roswell with a slight margin. After the game a meeting was called to order, plans made and a committee appointed for the Fourth of July celebration.

A well is being drilled at the Holy Bros. store and in a few days the remark "How dry it is!" must be abolished.

They keep coming. Who? The immigrants. Another car came in Friday and was unloaded Saturday.

Two cars of coal and two of wood were unloaded at the station the last week and more are expected soon. This means that the coal shortage next winter will not affect this community.

A trainload of sheep were unloaded here Monday to be shipped to the range near Cascade and the Payette lakes.

Mrs. Hickox made a trip to Ontario Monday with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Edwards.

Mrs. Gauderson has returned to her home from the Boise hospital but is not completely recovered yet.
