and then forced to travel, tout suite. Glad Its Over.

"Arrived at Masson-Ponthien March 27, in the wee small hours. This small village is between Auxi-le-Chateau and Abbeville.

"Fritz was stopped at last, and we were glad to operate here with the De-Haviland four bombers for almost three months.

"June 23, the orders came for the 22nd to assemble, and we bid our English friends in the once fifth R. N. A. S. (now the 205th R. A. F.). Goodbye. Took trucks to St. Omar and here I met Bill B. again. On train via Calais, Bologne, Etaples and other large town to Issoudun in the southern part of France, June 26, 1918. Was mighty glad to leave there July 5. Next stop was Orly (via Orleans), just outside of Paris---the town of them all!

"Was there or around there when not in Paris or Versailles until August 14. Train to Toul, where the 22nd went into action as a percut squadron on the American front.

"The victorious Yank offensive was on, and September 22, moved to Belvain, near Bon-le-Duc. (This was after the St. Mihiel offensive.)

"The Yanks advanced and on November 8, we moved to Souilly on Verdun front. Armistice signed November 11, and here we are still at Souilly, the cleanest city (?) in France, now! The next move I hope is to Le Harve and back to the good old U. S. A., the sooner the quicker.

"The 22nd, though last in action in this group, is first in honors, 42 Fritz planes accounted for officially, at present. Not bad.

"I certainly am anxious to return and see you all. Don't think it will be long, either, the way the rumor goes.

"This leaves me in the best of health, etc. Your son,
"RUFUS DINWIDDIE."

such work is not done by those who should do it."

W. F. Homan declared that at present one of the crying needs of Ontario is more modern houses. Every day, he said there are families searching the city to find a habitation, and without success. Now it is evident that there are people who want to live here, and that community has the opportunity to grow, but it must have more homes.

"I do not know just how to get these homes, but it seems to me with the demand that is existent that local capital would find profitable investment in modern homes.

While discussing needs for the growth of the community, Frank Rader called attention to the present condition of some of the roads leading to the city. He said:

"We may pave our streets and build homes, both of which are very good, but at the present time, unless they had an airship there are people about Ontario who would never get to town to see either of them. We must get action that will improve the road conditions leading to the city."

FIVE TO TEN YEARS

GIVEN JOHN HANLON

Fahy, E. M. Moore, J. M. Randleman, Jerry Brosnan and A. C. Holly.

The defendant was on the stand for nearly two hours, admitted the shooting and tried to establish under the questioning of his counsel, Attorneys P. Monroe Smock and John Norris of Payette, a case of temporary insanity, due to brooding over alleged wrongs resulting from an alleged robbery in Jordan Valley.

Under the cross examination by Attorneys J. W. McCulloch and W. W. Wood, who prosecuted the case, he admitted that he believed this insanity lasted but a short time and that he had always recognized that it was wrong to shoot any man. He admitted buying the gun in Vancouver, Washington after a trip to Salem to see Governor Withcombe. He also admitted practicing with the weapon while in Ontario.

The jury was out but a short time before arriving at its decision Tuesday evening. Hanlon was taken to Salem last night.

WHO SAYS IT?

Slogging through the mud of France.

Camping in the rain;

Hiking in a frozen trance

Down some German plain;

"Fall in!"—hear the sergeant yell,

Far from home and clover;

Tell me, who the bally hell

Said the war "was over?"

Chow for breakfast—slum for noon—

Who says men are free

While the bugler's foolish tune

Pipes the reveille?

"Right dress!"—hear the sergeant

buzz

From Mainz across to Dover;

Tell me who the hell it wuz

Said the war "was over?"

Cleaning up a mass of wire,

Stained with clotted blood

Where the big trucks bog and mire

In the winter mud;

Full of filth and fleas and fuzz—

Cannoner and drover,

Tell me who the fat-head wuz

Said the war "was over?"
