Do You Like to Live Amidst Attractive Surroundings? Then Read This.

The Village Beautiful

If a single merchant in this town were to adopt the permanent policy of making his store attractive in all possible ways he undoubtedly could hold the best trade of his town in the face of competition of every other kind.

What is true of the individual merchant is true of the entire village or city. All it needs to hold its trade and its population is to be attractive.

Attractiveness is of many kinds and is composed of many elements. Good roads, clean streets, low prices and high quality will attract to and generally hold trade for a town. But shaded streets well sprinkled, green lawns closely cropped, neatly painted and well kept houses and outbuildings reflect a diligence and prosperity that are almost as persuasive as some of the more tangible and material appeals of cost and quality.

One may imagine, for example, what a transformation could be effected in this town if every window on its business streets were occupied by a flower box filled with beautiful flowering plants. Yet the thought need not remain wholly imaginary; for at a comparatively small cost to each individual merchant such a transformation could be effected. Many of the largest stores and hotels of the great cities have decorated their windows in this way.

An example thus set by merchants doubtless would be followed by many citizens in the decorating of their homes.

In a few years our town would become known far and wide for the beauty of its homes and places of business.
