VALE, JUNE 25-30

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Mills of Salt Lake City have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Troxell. They came here via the gasoline route and declared that from Mountain Home west, the roads were far superior to those encountered in Eastern Idaho and Northern Utah.

J. W. McCulloch returned Friday afternoon from Lakeview where he represented clients during the term of court there.

Amos K. Johnson received a wire yesterday from the Salvation Army at Boston telling of the arrival there of his brother, Pvt. T. C. Johnson. Pvt. Johnson spent 15 months on the Lorraine front with the 23rd engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brott of Burns passed thru the city Monday enroute home from Boise where they spent a few days. While in the city they visited with friends.

SECOND APPEAL MADE FOR OIL LAND LEASES

not make this an oil producing section. It takes dozens of wells to justify the laying of pipe lines to convey oil and the erection of refineries both of which are absolutely necessary to make the oil profitable and require the investment of millions of dollars.

A single well here costs from $40,000 to $50,000 to drill and the majority of wells are dry holes in most oil districts.

Ontario has one live wire in the person of A. P. Boyer who believes there is oil in the Ontario district, and who is spending his own money to induce oil operators of unlimited means to come to this district to prove it—oil or no oil.

In order to bring this about Mr. Boyer has travelled over and thru nearly all of the oil producing districts and only recently secured the promises of big people to come here, in turn promising them oil leases on several thousand acres of land and free use of both the rotary and plunger drills, boilers, tools, etc., now located at the old well site adjacent to his Ontario home.

Mr. Boyer advises the Argus that he has not half the required acreage as yet, and that he believes if the landowners, hereabouts would give this matter one hour's solid thought, everyone of them would offer him a lease signed and sealed without solicitation on his part.

Mid summer is almost here and operations should begin within 30 days at the most. Nothing can possibly be done, however, until a sufficient amount of land is signed up under the usual oil lease, which gives the landowner his interest of one-eighth of all the oil and gas produced.

Mr. Boyer has been favored by many of our landowners signing up contracts but there still remains much to do. Unless local people show more interest than they have he could not get around to see them all, if he were to spend all his time to going around to see them.

Call up Mr. Boyer by phone and ask him to mail you a blank lease thereby facilitating this tremendously important project. If oil is not here we should all know it as soon as it is possible to determine this fact.

If oil is found or even gas in commercial quantities every man in the Northwest will be benefited to a greater or less extent, but Malheur county people most of all.

L. J. O'Neil was called to Los Angeles last Friday afternoon by the serious illness of his father.

Mrs. Herschel Browne who was recently a patient at the hospital is able to be up and around again.

Little Gene Biggs, son of Judge and Mrs. Dalton Biggs who has been at the family ranch above Vale is recovering from a mild attack of typhoid. He is reported as gaining strength satisfactorily.

Mrs. W. J. Allison entertained the scholars of her summer school classes last Friday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. O. G. Luehrs. A happy afternoon was the reward of the children who enjoyed the games played on the lawn, and the refreshments, too.

You Could Not Mistake Him.

Persons who had been in the habit of traversing Covent Garden at that time might, by extending their walk a few yards into Russell street, have noticed a small, spare man, clothed in black, who went out every morning, and returned every afternoon as the hands of the clock moved toward certain hours. You could not mistake him. He was somewhat stiff in his manner and almost clerical in dress; which indicated much wear. He had a long, melancholy face, with keen, penetrating eyes; and he walked with a short, resolute step citywards. He looked no one in the face for more than a moment, yet contrived to see everything as he went on. No one who ever studied the human feature could pass him by without recollecting his countenance; it was full of sensibility, and it came upon you like new thought, which you could not help dwelling upon afterward; it gave rise to meditation and did you good. This small, half-clerical man was—Charles Lamb.—Barry Cornwall.

Mirrors Made Useful.

Mirrors are great aids in the little house, for they give vistas and reflect distances in a most charming and very realistic way. One of the most satisfactory examples of their being able to effect spaciousness is seen in a much frequented restaurant. The dining room is very long, but unbelievably narrow. Indeed, ordinarily, it wouldn't do for the purpose at all, for folk would have a distressed smothered feeling between the two close walls. But the actual size of the restaurant is more than doubled in illusion, because the walls are solid mirrors from end to end, so that one has the impression that the place is without walls, and looking through the mirrors, which, of course, reflect one another from opposite sides of the room, the tables and people and lights and flowers spread far beyond the power of the eye to follow, and there is felt an exhilaration and a freedom which the little restaurant and the small crowd of diners could not pretend to give of themselves.

Judge C. M. Stearns, City Recorder, is at Hot Lake, Oregon, recuperating from an attack of high blood pressure from which he recently suffered. During his absence H. R. Douglass is attending to the duties of the office.

Pat Connelly of Drewsey, whose herds of sheep cover many ranges, and who is known all over Central and Eastern Oregon, is in Ontario this week recuperating from an attack of the flu which first attack him while on the range. It was with difficulty that he reached Ontario for medical attention, and tho he is now fast recovering, his friends have to look twice to be sure it is Mr. Connelly.
