

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. E. C. Van Petten is among the returned summer visitors at Payette Lakes.

Mrs. F. J. Clemo and her sisters, the Misses McGivern, are home again after a two weeks' stay at Payette Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Groig left this week to accompany Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Orr and son of Payette to Halley, Idaho, for an outing.

D. M. Taggart returned Wednesday from Portland where he enjoyed the tag end of buyers' week, and had a trip to Dayton, Oregon, on the side.

There was no stunt pulled off in Portland during Buyers week, that Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McDowell did not enjoy. But they were not satisfied by the Portland program for they ran down to Seaside to see the sand and sea waves. They came home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucy B. Fox and her mother Mrs. Barnett are expected to arrive on Monday from Ottumwa, Iowa, where they have been visiting relatives this summer. Mrs. Fox has been elected to a position in the Ottumwa schools for the coming year and will return to the Corn state after a short stay here.

P. L. Conrad, who goes over the Wabash railroad looking for things that make freight claims pile up, with headquarters in Moberly, Missouri, arrived in Ontario Tuesday on No. 4 to spend a few days with his old Missouri friend, H. R. Douglass. Mrs. Conrad and their son, accompanied him. They are the guests at the Douglass home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Graham and son Robert leave this week with Mr. Graham's brother of Boise for an auto trip thru Oregon and Washington which will take them all the way to the Straits of Juan de Fuca to their old home at Port Angeles. They are going to make the trip by auto going via the Sunset Highway in Washington and returning via the Columbia Highway in Oregon.

HAD IT DOWN FINE

Janitor's Wife Evidently Profound Philosopher.

Allowed No Differences of Opinion to Mar Her Happy Married Life—Some May Say She "Humored the Brute."

"Excuse me, Mrs. Dinkin, but if there's any cool feeling between you and Mr. Dinkin it has nothing to do with me and I can do nothing but wish you to patch up your troubles and be happy once again." The janitor's wife put down her mop as she spoke and stood with arms akimbo.

"But there is no quarrel," replied Mrs. Dinkin, tearfully. "Really! Just a difference of opinion, so to speak."

"That's one thing people shouldn't have, especially married ones, this here difference of opinion," remarked the janitor's wife. "The difference is in danger of getting worse until finally it's a break."

"If a man wants to go to the ball game he should be let go. A woman shouldn't be always begging to go along. Baseball is a man's game and a woman's fad. No woman really likes baseball—she only pretends it so her husband will take her along."

"When Oswald, my husband, asks to go by the game I don't pester him to be on the next bleacher seat. I have better sense. If I get the habit of going to the ball game with him how do I know but what he may start asking me to take him by my knitting club? Not for me!"

"Maybe what you say, a difference of opinion, comes about cooking. What a man should eat lots of times causes trouble. If he hasn't got the same food ideas as his wife she should have the same as him. I don't like bean huddle—I hate it—but Oswald is more than a huddle than a bean huddle itself."

"Then what do I do to save arguments? Why, when he says we will have bean huddle for breakfast, or for dinner, I say: 'Oh, Oswald, how glad I am you mentioned that delicate food! I'm dying for a portion!'"

"I like different talking-machine music than what he likes, but he don't know it. He never knows that when a bugle solo is on the machine I feel like jumping off the roof or something. He never guesses that a yodel makes me so sentimental I feel I got to mop my eyes instead of the floor."

"He wears a silk hat that Mr. Simmons gave him four years ago, and it makes him look like old Cap. Street-or, but he thinks he looks like someone he saw in the movies—a feller called Bushman, I think—and I let him go on thinking it."

"Would you advise me to start something and then we'd be like you and your husband is—have already a difference of opinion? No, Mrs. Dinkin. We are one happy couple and we're going to stick that way. Maybe it's my fault, but I'm satisfied and so is Oswald. I think."—Chicago News.

STREET VACATION IS ORDERED BY COUNCIL

(Continued From Page 1) action regarding the ten foot strip on the north side of the street and reduce the paving there to 48 feet and to make the sidewalks narrower. This was discussed at length but no action taken.

The council favorably acted upon the contract submitted by C. A. Kratz of Portland, whom Councilman H. B. Cockrum had interviewed in Portland and recommended for appointment as city engineer. Recorder Stearns was instructed to wire him at once the report as soon as possible since there are several improvements awaiting his arrival, including the laying of the sidewalk on Nevada from Oregon to Virtue streets.

The council spent a long time discussing the problem of water supply. It was reported that the water shortage experienced during the past week was due to the fact that the motor which operates the big pump had burned out and that repairs were being made. Ever since this motor was installed there has been a controversy concerning it. The city officials have contended that it was too small and the California Jewel Filter company officials, who installed it, have declared that it was not. They have insisted that the City go ahead and use the pump and declared they would replace it if it burned out. The Council will endeavor to make them make good on that proposition.

W. JONES OREGON WATER LAUNDRY

NEW CHURCH BUILDING IS ALMOST ASSURED

(Continued From Page 1) salary is paid by the New York office. Ontario, of course, has still more reasons to be grateful because of the extra money offered to enable us to have a new structure.

A much larger crowd than usual attended the morning services at the Methodist church last Sunday. Rev. Erwin who is the official evangelist for the Helena Area preached on the subject of Practical prayer. He likened the man "who would pray and pay as long as the church was run his way" to the primitive Zulu who worshipped the dead hand of some ancestor as his God, and who would threaten his "God" that unless his prayers were answered he "would feed him to the dogs."

At the evening service the evangelist introduced a "community sing" feature when he had the audience whistle the old familiar hymn, Beulah Land, while the young people in the choir sang the words. Last year Rev. Erwin was director of social service for one of the large churches in New York where his chief duty was to teach the people to smile and get some practical help out of their religion. "The religion of the happy heart and useful life" is the way the evangelist puts it.

Rev. Erwin announces that he will conduct a Happy Hour song service before his address each evening this week and after the address will lead in a general discussion of timely topics. An open forum for every body. A chance for the layman to talk back at the preacher if he differs in his views of affairs and conditions. A chance to ask questions of one who has had several years experience as business man, as a social service community worker and six years as a minister serving pastorates on both the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts.

BACK FROM THE YELLOWSTONE

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blackaby and Miss Margaret Blackaby returned this week from an extended trip thru the Yellowstone during which they visited many of the interesting points in Southern Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Blackaby are home again after having enjoyed Portland's hospitality on display during Buyers' week.

WILD WEST FEATURES TO RULE 1919 FAIR

(Continued from page 1) Kings, than the few Monarchs left in Europe ought to be in Ontario during Fair week, for we will have horse racing such as few of the birds kinging around overseas ever witnessed. With such animals as Deserri Gold, Red Witch, Juanita Fredericks, Molly, Hi Jenks, and a score of others of equal speed and class prancing about the track, the Kings of Europe haven't very much on the patrons of our Fair.

Take it all in all, the present outlook indicates that we will have the biggest crowds, the best program, and finest exhibits that we have ever had, and the slogan adopted, "The Best Yet", is highly appropriate.

MONTANAN ELECTED TO SUCCEED H. R. DOUGLASS

(Continued From Page 1) Dakota. J. W. Eckersley will be the teacher of History and Latin. He comes to Ontario from Wallowa where he was principal of the High School. He received both his A. B. and M. A. at Willamette University. Miss Dorothy Hull, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin has been elected head of the Commercial Department. She comes to Ontario from the Deer Lodge, Montana, schools.

Miss Christine Abbott, a member of last year's class at O. A. C. has been elected to head the department of Home Economics. While in college she was president of the Home Economics club.

Mrs. Edna Griffin, Miss Catherine V. Conway and Miss Victoria Stanka will again teach mathematics, literature and physical training.

Changes in the Grades. The Departmental school will also have a new head in A. D. Senseman who will teach history and arithmetic; in 7th and 8th grades; Miss Mary Deal who will teach English for 7th and 8th grades. Misses Mae Platt and Rena Biggs will again teach the 5th and 6th grades. Misses Eva Boydell and Cora McNulty are the only two members of last year's force to return to the lower grades having the 4th and 2nd grades respectively. Miss Marie Evans and Miss Winifred Laurence of Fairbury, Nebraska, will teach in the 3rd and first and second grades respectively.

Miss Pearl Jamieson of Brogan will be in charge of the primary work.

With Mrs. W. F. Homan, in charge of the 1st and 2nd grades and Miss Fern Lynch the 3rd and 4th, the East side school will be cared for. Never in the history of the schools has there been such a demand for information concerning the courses to be offered, and there is every indication that the enrollment this year will surpass all records established heretofore. Owing to lack of demand Spanish will not be taught in the schools this year.

During the coming week new equipment for the school playground will be constructed and erected. The primary rooms are to be equipped with modern primary tables and chairs.

WALKED ACROSS U. S.

Mrs. J. N. Franklyn, 23-year-old nurse of Seattle, Wash., walked from her home to New York City winning $2000 by the performance. She spent only $28 on the trip. She could accept a "lift" if asked twice to ride. She carried an 18-pound pack.

Mrs. Frank Rader, accompanied by her sons Bernard and Harrison and her daughter, Miss Irene, are home again after spending the summer at the Rader cottage on Payette Lakes.
