

CLEANLINESS AND DRY HEAT WILL KILL BOOK - LICE

Dwelling houses, libraries, museums, storehouses, barns, and other buildings often harbor diminutive insects known as booklice. Out of doors they may be found in all sorts of places as the crunks of trees, on fences, wood lots, and refuse of all sorts. The book-lice that occur in houses have no wings and are seldom more than one-sixteenth of an inch long. They are pale colored, almost white when young. As they grow older they darken somewhat because of the food they have eaten. Book-lice do not attack men as do true lice, and are therefore harmless to the occupants of the home. Usually they attract attention more from their annoying presence than from the harm they do. Yet when they are found in great numbers they may cause considerable injury. They feed upon decaying timbers, feathers, and straw, hair, flour, meal, wall paper, starchy paste, book bindings, and photographs. Book-lice thrive best in closed rooms that are warm and damp. Seldom are they noticed in light airy rooms in constant use. They die off during cold weather, but leave eggs behind which hatch the following spring.

Where only a few book-lice are present a thorough cleaning and string and drying of the room is all that is needed provided the source of infestation is in the room itself. Sun as many of the things within the room as possible, and heat the room to a temperature of 120 to 140 degrees for several hours. Book-lice are soft bodied insects and succumb to drying due to heat. If the source is an old straw or husk mattress it should be removed at once and burned wherever possible. Fumigation by sulphur is effective, but because of its bleaching effect can be disregarded.

In addition to cleanliness and plenty of sunlight and heat, fumigation, wherever it can be applied, may yield best results if the source of infestation has been removed.

Marshall Louis Mertins Comes on the Second Night.

Author, lecturer, humorist and staff poet of the Kansas City Star, Marshall Louis Mertins, who comes to Chautauqua Festival on the second night, has made a decided impression in the lecture and literary fields of today.

He discusses his subjects with the eagerness and optimism of youth, yet he is a deep student and a consistent thinker, and his addresses bear the stamp of the man who has mastered his subject.

Into his lecture, "Bricks Without Straw," he weaves a world of humor and brightens his splendid inspirational subject with poems from his latest book, "The Wishing Gate and Other Poems."

Swagler and Sheriff Lee Noe of Vale made a visit to the various emporiums where this form of chance taking thrived, Monday morning. Now there are no more boards in active service in the city.

The complaints alleged that these boards were being played by boys and girls of tender years, and also that contrary to the statutes minors were being permitted to loaf around pool halls. This too has been prohibited.

Five Day Delivery Plan

Which was evolved during the War, by the War-Board and the Laundry-Owners' National Association, and which is rapidly being adopted by most of the larger and more progressive laundries of the country.

The principal differences from our present system are as follows:

The work is picked up one-half day earlier and delivered one-half day later.

The work is picked up in the afternoon and delivered in the morning.

The city is divided into routes and there is One Day Only for gathering work on each route.

The advantages of the plan are that our work will be spread out evenly throughout the whole week instead of being bunched up into the first three or four days, our workers will have Saturday afternoons off, we will have work in the plant to start on Monday morning, you will be more apt to be at home when your bundle is delivered, you will have more time to get your bundle ready, and, barring serious accidents, you will always get your bundle the day you expect it.

In case there are times when our regular service is inconvenient to you, you may have service on any other day by bringing your bundle to our plant and calling for it when finished.

Our routes will be as follows:

- Route No. 1 Gather Saturday afternoon, Deliver Thursday morning.
- Route No. 2 Gather Monday afternoon, Deliver Friday morning.
- Route No. 3 Gather Tuesday afternoon, Deliver Saturday morning.
- Route No. 4 Gather Wednesday afternoon, Deliver Monday morning.
- Route No. 5 Gather Thursday afternoon, Deliver Tuesday morning.
- Route No. 6 Gather nothing Friday afternoon, Deliver nothing Wednesday morning.
- Route No. 1. That part of town South of the street running from the P. O. to the Hospital, Villa Park and Terrace Heights.
- Route No. 2. Business District, Vale, Homedale and Adrain.
- Route No. 3. Parma, Nyssa, Bregan, Jamieson, Riverside, Juntura, Crane, Burns, Voltage, Harper Fruitland and New Plymouth.
- Route No. 4. Business District and that part of the old townsite North of the street running from the P. O. to the Hospital.
- Route No. 5. East-side, Riverside Addition and Vale.
- Route No. 6. Reserved to take care of holidays, interruptions of the electric service, etc.
