FORDSON TRACTOR AGENCY TRANSFERRED TO V. B. STAPLES

As will be seen in the advertising columns elsewhere, V. B. Staples announces that the agency for the Fordson tractor was transferred to him on Monday of this week, February 2.

The Fordson tractor agency was formerly with the Vale Trading Co. at Vale and the Troxell Implement Co. of Ontario, but now Mr. Staples is the Ford agent for the entire county. He says the same service will be maintained on Fordson tractors as on Ford cars. He will soon appoint local dealers in all the principal towns throughout the county.

J. H. FARLEY VISITS CITY IN INTERESTS OF AUTO LINE

Jan. H. Farley, who for several years was one of Ontario's well known citizens, and who still is largely interested in local property, is in Ontario this week in the interest of the auto line which he is representing in this territory. After leaving Ontario over a year ago, Mr. Farley went to Oregon City, where he broke into the auto game and has since moved to Portland, where he is with the Denis Motors company, distributors of the Jackson Six, Sayers Six, Commonwealth 4-40 and Jackson trucks. Mr. Farley, while here, negotiated with local dealers to handle the line here.

APRIL OR MAY IS TIME TO PRUNE FRUIT TREES

Note Condition of Individual Trees,
Is Advice of New Chief of Division of Horticulture
at O. A. C.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, January 27.—Fruit growers are advised to do little or no pruning before April or May. Injury in various sections of Oregon as a result of the severe weather in December ranges from slight damage to winter-kill, according to W. S. Brown, chief of horticulture in the college who has been making a study of conditions over the state and who has prepared a preliminary report on his investigation.

Although the damage was spotted in its severity and light in some districts some orchards were hard hit, points out Professor Brown. The most serious damage seems to be in the part of the tree immediately above the snow line, taking in the upper part of the trunk and the main limbs, which is indicated by discoloration of the bark, the cambium layer and in some instances the outer part of the wood. The tender growing point and sometimes the entire portion of the fruit spur may be affected. Combined with this bark and wood injury many buds are affected, especially on the sweet cherries and pears.

The chief cause of the injury, which is usually found to extend entirely around the tree, is the combination of low temperature, coupled with the presence of considerable sap in the lower part of the tree at least. Another contributing factor which was very serious was the heat generated on the south and southwest sides of the trees by the sun's reflection on the snow. This caused a drying out of that portion of the bark and an injury much worse in some cases than is found on the north side of the tree.

Every fruit grower is wondering what is best to be done about pruning. The horticultural division recommends, after having examined a great many samples of injury and after several members of its staff having visited injured orchards in widely different parts of the state, that little or no pruning be practiced at this time. It will be better to leave the trees unpruned until April or May, and then notice the conditions of the individual trees before pruning. The reasonableness of this course is apparent when it is considered that some of the limbs that might be pruned out at this time may be needed next spring to take up the growth of the tree.

REX BEACH UNITES HUMOR AND DRAMA

A laugh now and then is enjoyed by everybody, and it is part of the pleasure of seeing Rex Beach's comedy picture "The Girl From Outside," that you get a good laugh now and then in the midst of an absorbing story. The laughs are all in the right place, too. Some of them are due to the characters and some to the situations.

You can't help smiling a little at the five crooks and their great interest in their new ward, the orphan girl who comes alone to Alaska. The wall-eyed crook who is deaf only when he wants to be is a sketch which isn't a scream. The Chinese has the smile that won't come off. But most of all you'll be tickled by the capture of the one cow in Norway to get milk for the girl when she is sick. The cow is handled a little roughly, but all in a good cause.

Rex Beach has a fine vein of humor himself, as you know if you read any of his books recently. His characters are always getting off racy remarks. Well, all the Beach humor is liberally represented on the screen in "The Girl From Outside" along with a story as entertaining as this master of narrative has told. It will be seen at the Dreamland theatre.

"ROSE OF THE WEST" IS A VIVID PHOTO-DRAMA

"Rose of the West" is a vivid photodrama of the northern wilds. Rose and Pierre Labelle, French Canadians, and their daughter, Angela, live in a cabin in the Lost River country, far from civilization. When the story opens Pierre, a brutal and neglectful husband, has been absent two years, and his wife fears his return. Lieutenant-Colonel Knight, head of the Royal Northwest mounted police, in love with Rose, comes to the cabin and, believing the husband dead, urges her to marry him. She asks him to wait until spring. As Knight is about to go, Jules, a half-breed guide, appears with the report that Pierre had been killed in an avalanche.

In the spring Knight returns for Rose and her daughter. As they prepare to depart the husband, Pierre, arrives and orders Knight from the house. Pierre is weak and delirious and raves of gold he has discovered during his long absence.

When he is stronger he hurries to one Beaudry, owner of the gold-bearing land. Beaudry—a married man—refuses to sell the land to Pierre until Pierre promises to give him, in addition, his pretty daughter Angela.

Later Beaudry comes to the cabin to complete the bargain. Rose, sensing trouble, orders him away. One day, however, when Rose is absent, Pierre tells Angela her mother is ill and informs her that Beaudry will take her to Rose. When Rose returns and misses her daughter she has a terrific battle with her husband and trails Beaudry and Angela. She rescues her daughter and, in a fierce fight with Beaudry, kills him.

Knight, head of the police, is told that Rose killed Beaudry. She confesses to him and though he loves her he is about to do his duty and arrest her, when Jules the guide, after a fight in which he kills Pierre, takes on himself the responsibility for Beaudry's death—then dies of his wounds. Rose is then free to marry and be happy.
