FIVE REASONS Why You Should Buy AMERICAN QUALITY Wood Pipe

Guarantee-5-

Stop Loss of Irrigation Water

Use American Quality Wood Pipe

If irrigation water is wasted, burned-up crops will result when the hot, dry weather sets in. Much of the annual waste of water is due to evaporation and seepage from open ditches and flumes.

When wood pipe is used, waste is reduced to the minimum because the flow of water through the pipe prevents evaporation and seepage is almost impossible. Pipe does not take up as much space as ditches and flumes and more land can be devoted to cultivation. Wood pipe is less expensive and more durable than iron pipe. It does not rust, the interior surface will not become rough with age and it offers less resistance to the flow of water.

Our American Quality wood pipe is ideal for irrigation purposes. It is made of best grade Washington yellow fir, has high tensile strength and because the wood is hard it prevents compression of the steel bands into the staves.

Ask the manager of any Boise Payette yard about American quality wood pipe. He will be glad to give you full information and will assure you prompt service.
