FARMERS GIVE APPROVAL OF FARM BUREAU WORK

Work of County Agent Declared Most Effective in Increasing Efficiency of Farms—Co-operative Shipping One of Great Benefits Secured

Among 2300 farmers of whom the question was asked, two of every three were acquainted with the county agent and farm bureau work, and 90 per cent of them were favorable to it. This survey was made in the 33 Northern and Western states last summer by a field representative of the States Relations Service, U. S. farmers were selected indiscriminately, a certain number being counted in each district. In states where there were farm bureaus, 66 per cent of the farmers placed the farm bureau and county agent first among the agencies that are of service to them, and 13 per cent placed the agricultural press first.

The question of the biggest problem of the farmers in the different communities showed that the three most pressing problems were: Labor, designated as the greatest problem by 632 farmers; improved farm practices, designated by 637 farmers; and marketing, which was considered the greatest problem by 399. Improvement in marketing must go hand in hand with improvement in production efficiency, but in many cases the successful accomplishment of the former is largely dependent upon considerable further development of the latter phase. For instance, in certain sections of Oregon it has been demonstrated beyond question that a silo will reduce production cost of livestock and livestock products 30 per cent; that sulphur will increase the yield of alfalfa at the rate of a ton per acre, which will produce 2000 per cent return on money invested in it; that hardy alfalfa will produce from a ton to two tons per acre more than common types; that a large percentage of the cows in the average dairy herd do not pay their keep, and that rodents and rabbits, which do thousands of dollars worth of damage to many individual farmers, can be eradicated through community action. Yet there are in these districts hundreds of farmers who do not employ these and other equally outstanding profitable business practices.

On the other hand some of the most important results are being secured along marketing lines. Exchanges are being established that are saving thousands of dollars to the members. Cooperative livestock shipping has been a great benefit in many counties. Wool and mohair pools have been successfully conducted in some instances. Fruit growers, dairymen and poultrymen are all becoming effectively organized for better marketing.

There appears to be ample justification for a well rounded and not a one-sided farm bureau program.

Wallace Reid's Lucky Blow

The gust of wind that blows Wallace Reid's hat over a high wall in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." is the new picture at the Dreamland Theatre this week, brings romance in its wake. For athletic Wallie leaps over the barricade after his lid and wins on the other side is a girl who wins his heart at once. The picture concerns the star's adventures in a mythical little kingdom of Enrope called Bovinia where he quells a revolution and introduces American methods into the antiquated country with such fine success that the old king turns the monarchy into a republic and leaves Wallie free to marry the Princess of his choice. Lila Lee is charming in her role of the Princess and Harrison Ford, Tully Marshall, Theodore Roberts, and Charles Ogle are also in the cast. The picture, which is a Paramount-Artcraft, was directed by James Cruze, Saturday, June 26.

FARMER'S ADOPT NEW LABOR WAGE SCALE

It may be had by demanding certificate of recommendation from all applicants for a position? While it may not be practical to take such local action yet we feel confident that some such move adopted by Farm Bureaus of state and nation would protect the farming interest and yet be within reason.

At the conclusion of the remarks a motion was made that the wage scale for farm labor be fixed at $4.00 per day and board, which carried. By motion request was sent to the County Commissioners to make an appropriation of $500 to aid in maintaining an employment bureau at Payette and the Farm Bureau was also to take the matter up with the Fruit growers Association.
