Presented Valuable Gift

Mrs. Evar Enberg, nee Laura Hooker, was invited to the home of her mother Saturday afternoon. When she arrived others numbering about fifteen had gathered to present to her the gift from the patrons of the Fruitland Telephone and other friends. Some weeks since Miss Hooker was married to Mr. Enberg and her friends all wanted to contribute to her happiness with a gift. Spread on a table beautifully decorated with flowers were the silver and cut glass given. The set of silver included one dozen each of knives, forks, tea spoons, salad forks, soup spoons, ice tea spoons, one-half dozen table spoons, tomato server, berry spoon, gravy ladle, cream ladle, butter knife, sugar spoon, jelly server, pickle fork, cold meat fork, a large cut glass berry dish, another cut glass dish and a cut glass rosebud vase. Mrs. R. W. Smith, chairman of the committee in charge, made the presentation, speaking of the worth of the bride and her efficient service on the telephone exchange, after which the original poem by Mrs. Smith was given as follows:

JUST A SILVER TOKEN
Here's just a little silver token,
With our love we bring to you;
As our thanks can ne'er be spoken
For service rendered so kind and true.

Then please accept our thanks as given,
For its the best that we can do
And on your road from earth to heaven,
In all things may you prove a true

Had we all things at our command,
To both of you the best we'd give;
Then as you journey hand in hand,
We hope a noble life you'll live.

And may your hearts be filled with love,
As you journey down life's way,
With His richest blessings from above,
May that love grow brighter day by day.

Mrs. Enberg expressed her appreciation of the gift after which a picture was taken of the table covered with the silver and cut glass. Mr. Enberg was unable to be present. The gift was on display at the bank for a week so that all who contributed might get to see it.
