JAPAN, U. S. AGREE ON LABOR EXCLUSION

Tokio.—Newspapers here report that the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding the methods to be employed. America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure as humiliating and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in future treaties. Japan is said to declare that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative.

In other respects the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and, once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.
