COW TESTING WORK GETTING GOOD RESULTS

Report For May Just Issued Shows High Average Production of Milk and Butter Fat

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.—Three thousand one hundred and forty-four cows were tested during May in the six Oregon cow testing associations. The average yield of milk was 986.6 pounds and of butter fat 39.47 pounds. This is the highest average yet reached in any month since association work started in the state, says E. B. Fitts of O. A. C. Extension service, who is in charge of the work.

Reports from the testers show that 14 inferior cows were weeded out of the herds during the month and that one pure bred bull was purchased.

The Tillamook association leads all others in the state for the month with an average yield of 1143 pounds of milk and 47.84 pounds of butter fat from the 1073 cows tested. The Smith-Umpqua association won second place with an average of 41.08 pounds of butter fat.

The highest yield made by an individual cow was 100.53 pounds of butter fat made by "Nina" a Jersey owned by Carl Posetti of Tillamook and the highest average yield from an entire herd was 66.51 pounds of butter fat from the 11 Jersey cows owned by Paul Fitzpatrick, also of Tillamook.

Association members are adopting better methods of feeding and handling their cattle. Many are feeding grain for the first time to cows on pasture. Some barns are being remodeled and several members report that milk coolers and other improved equipment have been installed.

CAIRO PIG CLUB TO HAVE STOCK JUDGING TEAM AT FAIR

The Cairo Pig Club spent a profitable afternoon on Wednesday, July 20, when they took up some preliminary work in judging hogs, beef and dairy cattle. The club first visited the Shorthorn herd of Bert Koplin and there learned some of the fine points of beef cattle. The boys judged a class of junior yearlings after which Mr. Koplin gave the correct placing and pointed out the differences in the animals.

The judging of hogs was next considered at F. W. Trinkle's where a class of Poland China sows were placed. Each boy gave his placings and the reasons why he placed one animal over the other. The correct placing was then given and the mistakes which the club members made were pointed out.

A few minutes were devoted to the judging of dairy cattle, emphasis being placed on general appearance, capacity as to the consuming of feed and the producing of milk and the constitution of the animal.

This club is planning on entering a team at the county fair, and are determined to win first place which entitles them to a free trip to the State Fair in Salem. At the State Fair the winning team will compete against every other county team in the State.

Those making the trip were Tom and Richard Kanady, John Cox, Ralph Sunquist, Volney and Victor Hickey, Glen Rose, and County Club Leader, Wellman.

SPRAY SPREADER STUFF MAY SOON BE AVAILABLE

New Material To Increase Economy and Effectiveness of Spray Ready For Fall Use

The spray spreader—caseinate and hydrated lime—recently developed by the O. A. C. Experiment station, is expected to be available to growers for use this fall.

The new spreader is designed to increase the wetting and covering power of insecticide spray solutions, and to make them go farther. It will thus make the solutions more effective and reduce the cost of application.

Tests conducted by the station with hordes of caterpillars showed that arsenate of lead dosage as weak as 1 pound to 400 gallons of water was fatal to the larva unlucky enough to eat it. The strength in usual field practice is 5 times this amount—2 pounds to 100 gallons.

It was found that the heavy application for supplying a much lighter dose in the worm diet was required for three principal reasons, physical defects of the spray solution, of the spray materials and of application. Spreaders have to do only with the solution.

HEAVY HAY CROPS REPORTED IN NORTHWEST

Crop reports recently compiled give the Oregon and Idaho hay crops for this year as exceeding the average by a good margin. The hay crop is particularly good in the mountain valleys and stock growing districts. Stockmen have had very favorable feed conditions for some time, owing to the mild winter and heavy growth of pasture grasses on the range this summer. With a large surplus of hay left over from last year and another big crop coming on, together with the great conditions of the stock which will enable marketing without much feeding, the stockmen are "in clover" so far as feed problems are concerned.

The Oregon Wool and Mohair Association now has a total of 1525 members and 202,000 fleeces signed up. This makes it one of the largest and strongest of the newer cooperative marketing associations, and also indicates there was a real need for a more business-like and intelligent manner of marketing farm flock wools.

A special preparation of these spreaders has been made up by commercial plants. It can readily be mixed in the tank, at the rate of 12 ounces to 200 gallons.
