COMMUNITY HALL BONITA'S AIM

Barbecue To Be Held On August 11 At Which Interesting Program of Sports, Races and Talks Will Be Featured

Bonita, that energetic community in Cow Valley, has ambitions which call for the construction of a community hall. To start a fund to be used for that purpose the folks up there under the leadership of the Farm Bureau are going to hold a picnic and barbecue on August 11. This was the decision reached at a Farm Bureau meeting held last week at the Phelan store.

In the absence of Chairman Hammack, J. F. Phelan was the chairman of the meeting which was well attended. Following the talk on pig and cow judging and a review of the work of the pig club in Bonita district by County Club Leader Harry Wellman the meeting considered the report of the committee which started arrangements for the annual barbecue and picnic which it was decided to hold on August 11 at the Phelan grove. The following were appointed on the committees: barbecue and dinner: Phelan, Jones and Simonson; games and races: Lester Hammack, Ed Bowman and Earl Weaver; program and arrangements: Simonson, Leo Hammack and Edgar Woods. The Bonita folk are extending an invitation to everyone for miles around to be present at their picnic and barbecue which is one of the big events of the year in Cow Valley.

FIRE MARSHALS ORDER OLD SHACKS REMOVED

ent Condemnation Ordinance which is found to be entirely adequate and cause the old wooden shacks, and sheds to be removed from the business district of the city. These old sheds are a positive menace to the city and are of practically no value.

We would recommend that action be taken immediately on the following: The blocks between Washington and California Streets and between Oregon and Richardson Streets. Also in the alleys of blocks No. 14 and No. 15.

These old wood shacks are a very great fire menace to the better class of buildings and their removal will reduce the danger from fire materially.

We recommend that the double 35 gallon hand chemical extinguisher be a valuable piece of equipment, charged for use. It will prove to be a valuable piece of equipment. We further recommend that as soon as possible the two 35 gallon chemical tanks be mounted on the rear of an automobile chassis. They will be a very valuable addition to the fire equipment.

We recommend that an ordinance be enacted authorizing inspection by the Fire Department for the removal of fire hazards and that the fire chief or other suitable person be authorized to do the inspection work. A suitable ordinance for this purpose is attached to and made a part of this report. This inspection work is of very great importance to the city and the Ordinance should be enacted without delay.

TEACH CHILDREN TO WASH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Children should have fruits, also celery, tomatoes, and salads not only to give variety in their school lunches, but especially to supply the vitamins and other food elements necessary for healthy growth, agree nutrition specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

When they eat any of these uncooked foods at home it is probable that the mother has washed the fruit or vegetables properly before serving it. All market produce needs washing to remove dirt and dust, bacteria, and sometimes particles of spray residue. The best fruits and usually the best-looking fruits are those from trees which have been properly sprayed while the fruit was in its early stages and sometimes the spray may not have weathered off the fruit before harvest. Children should not be given money to buy their own fruit from hucksters or stands unless there are facilities at school for washing it. They should be drilled in the practice of washing what they eat of these uncooked products, as a matter of ordinary cleanliness.

CUT ALFALEA WHEN NEW SHOOTS START FROM CROWN

Just when to cut alfalfa and how many times to harvest a crop in one season are questions which have received studied attention from experts in the United States Department of Agriculture and the various experiment stations in alfalfa-producing States. Ordinarily it is a good time to cut alfalfa for hay when the new shoots have started from the crown, and from one-tenth to one-fifth of the plants are in flower. But these two conditions do not always occur at the same time. However, the farmer with a little experience, and keeping in mind the flower and new shoots, soon is able to tell when his alfalfa crop should be cut. The farmer's best judgment will be called into play, with preference given to the welfare of the plant rather than the size of the crop.

DISCOUNT PRICE PAID FOR GRAIN OF INTERIOR QUALITY

While equipment for cleaning and conditioning grain is expensive, country elevators will find that its use frequently improves the quality of the grain and increases its market value, says specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Sometimes grain comes to the elevator in poor condition, often being dirty, dusty, or with high moisture content, and unless the quality is improved by cleaning or drying the grain cannot be disposed of advantageously.

Moreover, grain containing impurities, foreign matter, or a high moisture content is quite likely to become hot in transit, which greatly reduces its value and frequently results in serious financial loss. If the elevator is not provided with suitable equipment for this process, such grain must be shipped in the condition in which it is received.

The farmer should not place all responsibility for cleaning grain on the elevator, it is believed. It should be remembered that elevator managers do not pay grain prices for the dirt and water found in a farmer's grain. The price should be established by taking into consideration the necessary expense of placing the grain in marketable condition. The farmer who delivers clean, dry, sound grain should receive a premium over the price paid to the more careless farmer who delivers grain of inferior quality, specialists say.

Washington, July 30.—Congressman Sinnott, chairman of the public lands committee of the house, regards the proposal of the interior department to regulate grazing on the public domain as perhaps the last great question dealing with public lands.

Within the next few weeks, hearings on the bill introduced by Mr. Sinnott at the request of the secretary of the interior department, will be started and all angles of the proposal ventilated.

For many years there has been growing opposition to the policy of including large acreage of non-forest lands within the national forest service, simply for the purpose of having grazing on those lands regulated by some authority.

Fall Suggests Bill

It was in answer to the request from Congressman Sinnott for the opinion of the interior department on one of these bills that the following letter was received from the secretary of the interior, coming with a draft of the bill to cover the idea suggested by Secretary of Interior Fall:

"I am in receipt of your request for report upon S. 1590, proposing to add certain lands to the Wyoming National forest.

"Available data indicate that the greater part of the lands described are chiefly valuable for grazing purposes. An examination of the laws authorizing the creation and maintenance of national forests clearly shows that they do not contemplate the inclusion in national forests of this class of lands, but by reason of demand for grazing supervision, numerous bills like this have been introduced proposing to add areas of this character to the national forests. This indicates the necessity of some general policy as to the handling and use of public lands not suitable for reclamation, or for the establishment of homes thereon under the agricultural homestead laws.

Secretary Given Authority

"I have accordingly drawn a tentative bill designed to vest in the secretary of the interior authority to regulate and lease the unappropriated grazing lands on the public domain, and to recommend that, if it meet with approval, it be enacted in lieu of S. 1590 and other pending bills proposing to add grazing areas to national forests."

Congressman Sinnott has introduced a bill upon this subject.
