Why a B. P. Frost Proof Silo is the Best

- 1 Made entirely of wood. Double walls with dead air space between, offering perfect insulation, which eliminates loss from frost.
- 2 Walls are made of flooring run perpendicular, giving a smooth surface inside, insuring even settling of silage. (Silos with horizontal wall construction are rough inside and result in loss of silage around edges, because the air gets in, due to improper settling.)
- 3 Round shape of B. P. silo gives maximum capacity and stability and makes better silage.
- 4 Simple and economical to construct. All materials available at B. P. yards.
- 5 Wood makes most succulent silage; 1 5-8 inches of wood gives frost protection equal to 33 inches of concrete.
