Ontario, Oregon, September 26, 1921.

H. R. Udick, Ontario, Oregon,

Dear Sir:

The Arcola equipment which you installed in the Argus office in the fail of 1920 has given entire satisfaction. For the first time our office was uniformly heated and comfortable in every portion, even on the coldest days last winter. This was accomplished, too, with a saving in fuel and in time, for we did not have to stoke often to obtain this result. We deem the Arcola a permanent improvement which we would not be without, and a means of saving money, while multiplying comfort.

J. ADAM ANALYSIS SITUATION

The following apparently characteristic comment is charged to J. Adam Bede, former congressman: "Another thing that is wrong with the world is that it is long on limousines and short on manure spreaders and wheelbarrows. Lots of people have been living up in the air and have had no parachutes to ceme down in, or they are coming down on second mortgages. There are 20,000,000 families in this country and only 7,000,000 homes. Last year there were 1,000,000 marriages and only 700,000 homes built, so that leaves the rest of the number to live in their limousines and at the movies."
