NOT SETTLED; JUST POSTPONED

The people of the United States are relieved that for the present, at least, there is no danger of a railroad strike. However that does not mean that the danger is averted for all time. The issue has not been settled, only to the degree that the railroad men recognize that they cannot combat public opinion and the force of the United States government.

The fault lies not with the railroad employees alone, but with the managers of the railroads as well. Both sides have been in the wrong. They have forgotten that there is a higher interest than theirs which must be consulted.

In fact it appears that the entire transportation system of America has broken down. It apparently is not an economical system. The toll it is taking from the public is more than the public can bear. It cannot justify its charges.

There must be further transportation reductions before business can be back to normal, and the railroad stockholders and the railroad employees should themselves see to it that they can so function and serve the people that their invested capital, on the one hand, and their employment on the other can be stabilized and assured. The interests of both the owners of capital invested in railroads and the men employed in railroading are at stake and they should see the light and put their own house in order.

TOO RICH, NOT TOO POOR

"Malheur county is too rich to get to work," said an observant visitor here the other day. "The trouble with the folks in this section is that they have too much wealth. They are living on their fat, and have not, as yet reached the point where they have to go to work."

"That is the principal reason why

Yes

it's toasted, of course. To seal in the flavor—

there are not more dairy cattle in this section. If there are people who have the hay and who really want to milk cows, I believe you people here will find the money. You have the energy, the ability and the courage to tackle this problem.

"The development achieved here in the past ten years shows what can be done, and I am confident that you will come through the present situation all right. In fact you are now in a much better situation than most communities. Your farmers are better off, even though they have not made any money this or last year. Neither have the farmers in the Middle West. And it is true that where there are dairy cows and chickens the people are not complaining."

This statement from a man who is in a position to know what the situation is elsewhere should encourage the people of this section. There is no doubt of the fertility of our valley. There is no doubt about the ability of our farmers to raise crops. With the necessity of providing themselves with a market for their hay through feeding to dairy cows plainly understood we believe that they will not sidestep the problem, but will face the situation as it is and adjust themselves accordingly.

In this they are entitled to the leadership of the business men of the community. They are entitled to the consideration of their problem by the business men and the banks, to the end that during the transition period they will be accommodated as they are individuals merit.

We do not believe that the farmers of this section are asking for unusual favors. They are willing to fight their own fight and only ask for an opportunity.

THE DEFEAT OF THE N. P. L.

At last the Non Partisan League in North Dakota has been repudiated by the voters of that state. The victory, however, was not so impressive as to lead to the optimistic belief that the League in that state is dead forever and amen. Not by a long shot is this true, though it would be delightful to believe that this was true.

To a large degree, we believe, the victory over the Townleyites was a personal victory for R. A. Nestos, the candidate for governor who defeated Lynn J. Frasier. Nestos is an able man, a powerful campaigner, an indefatigable worker who knows the people of the state from the Montana line to Red River of the North. Beside this Nestos had the backing of a powerful organization which has carried on the fight against the demagoguery of the N. P. L. for the past five years.

There is evidence that the people of North Dakota have at last awakened to the danger to which their property has been subject by the irresponsible theorists of the Non Partisan League, few of whose leaders were in fact but parasites living off the farmer members of the league. They were carpet baggers peddling discontent and hatred.

Divorced from the public payroll, repudiated by the voters, the danger of the Non Partisan League reviving in North Dakota for the present is not great, and it need never be revived if the independent Voters Association and its leader use good judgment. There were some reforms for which the N. P. L. strove that were worthy of consideration, and which the I. V. A. and Governor Nestos and his associates should secure, and demonstrate that they are constructive farseeing men of real ability.

ARMISTICE GAME BILLED FOR BOISE

Biggest Football Game of Season Scheduled for November 11; Both Teams in Perfect Shape and Awaiting Sound of Opening Whistle

BOISE, IDA., Nov. 2—Southern Idaho's football classic, the second annual Armistice day game at Boise, this year to take the form of a contest between the University of Idaho and University of Wyoming elevens, has already aroused such unusual interest that 10,000 persons are expected to be on hand when the two varsity teams come together at the state fair grounds.

This season southern Idaho entirely outclasses the north in representation on the team which will represent the state against Wyoming, nine of Kelley's first string men calling southern Idaho home while only two hail from north of the Salmon river.

Boise, with three regulars in the persons of Frank Brown, Jim Neal and "Babe" Brown, leads the remainder of the state. Caldwell is second with the two Breshers boys, Howard and Arnold, while American Falls, with Captain Grover Evans; Emmet, with Dale Voesch; Blackfoot, with Clayton Hoover; Rupert, with the sensational Neil Irving; Coeur d'Alene, with Heints Gliddeman and Lewiston, with Joe Whitcomb, complete the roll of honor.

"I would like to have it brought home," declared Coach Kelley in speaking of his eleven, "that the Idaho team, in its personnel and in its spirit, is representing this entire state, representing it from Boundary county to Bear Lake and from Owyhee county to the Tetons. The boys expect to play clean, hard football and they hope to win. They understand that they must do honor to their state on November 11."

Neil Irving of Rupert
Neil Irving of Rupert, brilliant halfback, has thus far proven himself the star of the 1921 Idaho team. He can run the ends, plow through the line or hurl forward passes and his educated toe not only can boot long punts, but also scores consistently for his team via the place-kick route.

Captain Grover Evans of American Falls
Other luminaries of the Idaho eleven are Captain Grover Evans, powerful right end, a vicious tackler and an adept at receiving forward passes; "Babe" Brown of Boise, who, performing at the opposite end of the line, has acquired the reputation for hitting harder than any other man who ever played for the silver and gold; and Joe Whitcomb of Lewiston, a clever, shifty halfback who shines particularly at running back punts through a broken field.

The bright lights of Coach John Corbett's capable Wyoming team are Erb, a dashing halfback said to be almost impossible to stop on end runs, and Fitzke, fullback, the ablest punter in the west. Thus far this season Fitzke's punts have averaged between 55 and 60 yards, exceeding by more than 10 yards the best 1921 average of any other western kicker.

University of Idaho alumni are planning to hold their southern Idaho reunion at Boise November 10, the day before the game. A dance honoring the two teams and a banquet at which state officials will speak and at which former varsity captains will be introduced are among the entertainment features already definitely arranged.
