TELEPHONES IN GREAT WAR

American Equipment Said to Have Been Complete Down to the Smallest Imaginable Detail.

According to the chief signal officer of the A. E. F., two armies, 12 corps, 83 divisions and 45 field signal battalions were completely equipped with telephone supplies. The signal corps constructed 1,900 miles of permanent pole lines with 28,000 miles of wire; put up 3,230 miles of wire on French poles and installed approximately 40,000 miles of combat lines.

Telephone exchanges on permanent lines in France numbered 273, and those in the advance section 123, besides small temporary field installations.

About 1,600,000 long-distance telephone calls were handled by the signal corps, together with local telephone calls estimated at 47,000,000. The organization of this system required the services of a veritable army of telephone experts, the Bell system alone having contributed 11,200 employees who served overseas. Girl telephone operators of the system to the number of 233 went to France in the uniform of the signal corps.

So completely organized was the system of telephone communications that it has been said that if he had desired to do so, General Pershing could have taken up his telephone at his headquarters in Chaumont and called up any second lieutenant, sitting at the end of a wire in an advance post, anywhere along the entire sector occupied by the American forces.

NO LIVING THING ON ISLAND

Condition of Affairs Would Seem to Prove That Mother Nature Can Make Errors.

A freak of nature, proving of more than ordinary interest, is a good-sized island in Puget sound, which is apparently dying from old age. It was observed last summer that every fir and cedar tree on the island was dead. About the water's edge vegetation appeared withered and a thin vapor hung over the island during the day. Never inhabited, and about 100 acres in extent, the island has for years been noted for its growth of wonderful trees.

Firs three feet in diameter grew so thickly as to make travel through them almost impossible. Both cedar and alder flourished. The ownership of the tract has been in litigation for years and the timber could not be logged.

Now there is not a living thing on the island. Not a crow rests on the dead tops, and as boats pass, an occasional crash tells of the fall of a wreck.

ONTARIO HIGH SCHOOL WEEKLY NEWS BUDGET

Written and Edited by the News Writing Class of The English Department

S. M. Boucher, Miss Helen Dunstone, Mrs. L. Adam and son, Dick, were among the Ontario residents who motored to Boise Monday afternoon to hear Madame Schumann Heink sing.

Friday February 10, about forty guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cready, by Beatrice Long, Erma Kime and Leora Hauzts. The evening was spent in playing games, and at about twelve o'clock a delightful luncheon was served.

The Q. R. M. is the name of the official organ of the Radio club. The first issue was published last week, and is decidedly a worthy publication. Webster Jones is editor, Fred Heightsman assistant and Leonard Zimmerman is business manager. The work of getting out the paper was all done by the members of the club assisted by the advanced typing students.

A commercial bulletin was published this week by the advanced typing students, the purpose of which was to give the students training in cutting stencils and running the mimeograph. The bulletin gives the names and net rates of all the beginning students in the typing department.

The return games which were to have been played with Vale were postponed because of the unusual amount of illness in Vale.

Miss Reba Hood, who is to be Queen of Hearts at the High school party next Friday, has selected the following court: King, Frank Van Petten; ladies-in-waiting, Ethel Conway and Lela Everett; Joker, Donald Parker; page Harold McCulloch. Last Friday evening the boys' basketball team defeated the Emmett team by a score of 34 to 14. An Emmett has one of the strongest teams in the league, the boys naturally felt elated over their victory.

The following is the cast of "Green Stockings" the Senior class play, which will be presented at the Majestic theatre on March 2:
Wm. Faraday, father of four daughters Dick Adam
Admiral Grice, friend of the family, gruff but kindly Homer Maddux
Robert Tarver, interested in his own election and Phyllis Wm. Lees
Jimmie Raleigh, superficial young Englishman Lawrence Rowe
Henry Steele, another superficial young Englishman Francis Reidey
Martin, the family servant Webster Jones
Col. J. N. Smith-Vavasour, D. S. O., Just home from Somaliland Hugh Biggs
Mrs. Chisholm Faraday (Aunt Ida) Clara Inez Wood
Madge, Mrs. Rockingham Gertrude Skow
Evelyn, Lady Trenchard (a young widow) Evelyn Stewart
Phyllis Faraday (eighteen and very much interested in "Bobby") Mildred Ratcliffe
Celia Faraday (still under thirty) Lela Everett

Margaret Blackaby, beginning student in typewriting, has just received a Certificate of Proficiency from the Underwood Typewriter Co., as an award for writing 33.4 net words per minute for fifteen minutes with only two errors. This is the first certificate that has been won by the beginners this year, but several more expect to win this award in the February test.

Their Frank Opinion.
A few weeks ago my parents and I were walking in a section of a suburb in which quite a lot of building was going on. Our curiosity overcoming us, we went in one house, which was about half completed. We immediately commenced to criticize it, commenting upon its instability, the smallness of the rooms and how we would hate to live in such a house. Finally, our exploration of the first floor completed, we looked up to see if there were rooms upstairs. Imagine our chagrin when we saw a man, who we afterward learned owned the house, sitting on the rafters, painting a window sill and interestedly listening to our conversation. We fled quickly.—Chicago Tribune.

X-Ray Cancer Treatment.

Remarkably successful results in the treatment of cancer are expected at the London hospitals, Whitechapel, by the "Dual Method" of applying X-rays. "The system had then been only recently installed," writes a medical correspondent, "and it is too soon to make a definite claim of permanent cure. At least five years must elapse without recurrence of cancerous growths before it can be confidently said that the disease is cured. But one of the cases described to me recently at the hospital is almost miraculous. A doctor, in whom seven surgeons diagnosed cancer, and regarded the case as hopeless, submitted himself for treatment with X-rays. Death had seemed certain within a few weeks, but he is now back in active practice."
