

ANNOUNCEMENT LUNCHEON

The engagement of Miss Myrl Bingham of this city, and Harlie D. Jenne of Caldwell, was announced at a course luncheon, given by Mrs. C. E. Bingham at her home, June 20th.

Covers were laid for ten and a wonderful color scheme in violet and gold was carried out. The favors were miniature baskets of pansies with yellow birds poised on the edge, bringing the message. The afternoon was spent in sewing for the bride-to-be, and according to the ancient custom, Miss Miles and Miss Skow should be the next brides. The guests were, Daisy Secoy, Ula Gramse, Gertrude Skow, Mrs. Walter Gramse, Mrs. B. L. Bull and Mrs. E. V. Bull. Out of town guests were Opal Calkins and Hallie Parriot of Weiser, and Wilma Miles of New Plymouth.

GEO. LYLES SURPRISED

One of the most enjoyable evenings was spent at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lyles last Tuesday evening by a crowd of about 50 guests, it being the 68th birthday of our village blacksmith, who was surprised beyond expression. After an evening of varied entertainment the crowd repaired to their homes wishing George happiness and health for many more like occasions.

CARD OF THANKS

To our many friends whose kind thoughtfulness and acts of sympathy helped us to bear our recent sorrow, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks. We desire also to extend a message of appreciation for the many beautiful floral offerings.

A glove for the tongue has been patented by an inventor of Indiana. It is called a "tongue shield," and is designed to enable the wearer to escape the unpleasantness of castor oil or other bad-tasting medicines. The contrivance might be said to have the shape of a miniature slipper without any heel portion, but when placed over the tongue is inverted. The tongue is inserted into the "toe" part and the back part of the "sole" extends over the top of the tongue toward the throat. The device is made of thin rubber, so as to be liquid proof, and is so constructed as to fit the tongue snugly without discomfort. When medicine is taken it passes into the throat without affecting the sense of taste, so that all unpleasantness is obviated.

Four Colors Are New.

What is a season without a few new colors?

Thus we have them—forward comes some fashion authority and announces in our midst that the four newest and most popular colors of the present moment are rosewood, chow, aztec and humming bird.

With rosewood we're more or less familiar—we've met it in pianos, spinet, desks and so on.

But chow! 'Tis a different story—it might be anything from a pet pup (if the food your doughboy existed on in those ruddy days of memory.

THIS BIRD REAL POLLYANNA

No Imaginable Adverse Circumstance Can Keep "Cucubero" From His Fit of Laughter.

The real Pollyanna of the feathered tribes has just arrived at the bird house in Central park, for if any one can bear up under the name of Cucubero and still keep cheerful, it shows one of those persistently gay natures that nothing can mitigate. Of course, Cucubero has won a better deal from the public at large than he did from the ornithologists who saddled him with his gloomy scientific appellation, for the people of Australia, where he comes from, recognize his propensity to "Keep Smiling" by calling him the "Laughing Jackass."

And, equally, of course, he has earned this soubriquet, for he is reported to thrive on vast quantities of water—no matter what other beverages are available—and to have a habit of laughing before he gets up, an hour or so before sunrise. Now, any one who can laugh an hour before dawn on just plain water—even Pollyanna and her followers never did anything so blatantly cheerful as that.

This kingfisher bird, for that is his family, is sometimes hailed as the settlers' clock, because of his regularity in bursting out into a spasm of wild, ribald laughter, that surpasses any alarm clock in rousing the inhabitants of the Australian bush, while it is more than probable that a relapse into this fiendish merriment that takes him about sunset serves for the dwellers in the hinterland as a dinner bell, cathedral chimes, and factory whistle, all in one. They show their gratitude by making a pet of him and protecting him in his merry chorus—New York Post.

SPAIN GAVE WALES DAFFODIL

First Flowers Said to Have Been Received in Exchange for a Consignment of Coal.

According to an old legend, the first batch of daffodils ever seen in Wales reached there in return for a consignment of coal. The daffodil is indigenous to the Bilboa district, some of whose seafaring inhabitants were about two thousand years ago conveyed by the flow of the Gulf stream to Pembrokeshire. There they saw the inhabitants digging what is now known as anthracite, and making fires with it. They also noted that the Welsh were sun worshippers. Taking some of the anthracite back with them, the Spaniards realized its immense superiority over charcoal for the purpose of smelting iron ore, for which the country round Bilboa was celebrated even in those days, so an expedition was organized to procure further supplies from Wales.

As barter for the "black stones" the Spaniards took a consignment of daffodil bulbs, because they thought that people who worshiped the sun would be impressed by the beauty of this flower as it unfolded itself and displayed its form and color, and that in its corona and radiating petals they would see reflected the glory of the sun. Thus used as barter and carefully cultivated by the ancient inhabitants of Wales, the daffodil eventually became the floral emblem of the country.

Pity the Telephone Girl.

One hundred telephone calls a minute, as is usual after any sporting event, were coming in over the wires at the News office, after the Kentucky Derby. The majority of the calls were inquiries as to the results of the race, which was won by Behave Yourself in 2:04 1-5.

One enthusiastic baseball fan asked the telephone operator who won the game between the Indians and the Colonels.

"Behave Yourself," was the answer, and a cracked receiver at the other end of the line was the reply.

A little later some one asked how the race was at the quarter.

Another became indignant when the girl replied: "Behave Yourself," thinking she was "kidding" him.—Indianapolis News.

Colonial Styles Endure.

In many parts of this country there has been a decided tendency among manufacturers of furniture to comb European mansions, palaces and museums for possible inspiration in the domestic arts, apparently oblivious to the fact that we have in America what generally is considered one of the most graceful, simple and beautiful types of decorative art—that of the colonial period. That this style is authentic and of intrinsic value, artistic and useful, has been abundantly proved.

That manufacturers have been wise in modifying extreme period designs to meet modern conditions in this country seems pretty well established.

Woman Juror Caused Trouble.

The question as to whether women will make successful "jurymen" has been raised in England by the recent collapse of a woman juror in a Manchester court. The woman became ill and almost swooned during the hearing of a charge of malicious wounding. She finally collapsed, had to leave the court and a substitute had to be found. Of course, the trial had to begin all over again.

Humor Superior to Wit.

Wit, bright, rapid and blasting as the lightning, flashes, strikes and vanishes in an instant; humor, warm and all-embracing as the sunshine, bathes its object in a genial and abiding light.—Whipple.
