

The final test

The real value of a motor lubricant can be determined in only one way—through its use in the engine for which it is intended.

Hence this company maintains an engine-testing laboratory, equipped with a Sprague dynamometer, in which Zerolene and other lubricants are constantly being tested under actual operating conditions.

This dynamometer laboratory is in charge of competent trained men, who spend all their time in conducting comparative tests of Zerolene and other lubricants in automobile, airplane, marine, truck and tractor engines.

Correct Lubrication Recommendations

On the results of these tests, supplemented by equally careful tests in the field and on the road, our Board of Lubrication Engineers bases its Chart of Recommendations.

Close attention is given to the design and construction of the engine. It is necessary to know, first, the speed of the bearing surfaces; second, clearance between bearing surfaces; third, temperatures at which bearings operate; fourth, pressures exerted in each bearing; fifth, the means provided for the distribution of the oil to each bearing.

The recommendations embodied in the Zerolene Chart are calculated with the greatest precision, and if Zerolene is used in accordance with them, correct lubrication and maximum fuel mileage are assured.

SELF-PROTECTION HER AIM

College Girl Proves She has a Mind by Care She Takes to Hide the Fact.

It is time for the college girl to meet the charges heaped against her. She is called frivolous, empty-headed, and her appearance is considered wrong in every detail. Now she is driven to confess that it is all done for self-protection, writes Olga Owens, in Judge.

With a mind as valuable as hers, the college girl is not safe. In these days of constant holdups and robberies, ruthless bandits are waiting at every turn. How can she go abroad proclaiming to the world the vast wealth of knowledge that is hers? Obviously, she must disguise it.

Suppose she lets her hair grow! Pinned up on a head already enlarged by so much learning, she becomes so conspicuous that she falls prey to the first intellectual crook. So she bobs it. Suppose she wears long skirts, or even a modest collegiate gown. Would it be surprising if some dark night she is held up, and at the point of a pistol made to recite the whole of Homer's "Iliad" to some desperate college professor? So to be doubly sure, she rolls her stockings. Education is a conspicuous thing, and if the student applies a little powder now and then to cover up its shining light upon her face, she should not be condemned. The desperate age in which we live has made all this necessary.

So it is with admiration and pity that we should regard her, bravely adopting the latest styles, without complaint. Not even the reformer wears his pocketbook where it can be seen. The college girl proves that she has a mind by hiding it.

SUCCESS OF "SILENT NINE"

By Its Use Airplane Passengers Are Enabled Freely to Converse With Each Other.

A silent airplane engine has at last been invented.

In a recent test the deafening roar of the engine and exhaust was completely eliminated when fitted with the "Silent Nine," as the new invention is called.

Passengers will now be able to converse with ease while in the air, and not be forced to shout at the top of their voices.

The "Silent Nine" is very simple in construction and in principle, says London Answers. It consists of an expansion chamber fitted to the end of a long exhaust pipe, and arranged in such a way that the gases from the engine are cooled immediately they leave the red-hot exhaust hole. This is the secret of engine silence.

The inventor is Major Grant, the superintendent of the Croydon air-drome depot.

One "Silent Nine" can be sold at a profit for less than £10 ($50), and already there is a great demand for it.

Help Austrian Children.

Danish Joint committees for help to war devastated countries report that in 1921 Denmark entertained 5,584 children from Austria for several months, and that since September, 1919, Denmark has cared for 16,455 Austrian children and 5,428 German children. Furthermore, 120 German little ones needing special care were nursed in a special camp. Gifts of hospital equipment were sent to Austria and Germany, and 40,000 francs was spent supporting a children's home near Rheims. Food and clothing to the value of 70,000 Danish crowns were sent to Germany and Austria and financial assistance for children amounting to 25,000 crowns was sent to Belgium, 33,775 to Poland, and 34,500 to France.

Arabs Use Opium Bait.

A novel way of catching fish by Arabs was described by Lieutenant Commander A. S. Elwell-Sutton in describing the work of the British gunboats on the river Tigris above Bagdad.

The natives, there, he said, had a ground bait of lumps of dough containing a small quantity of opium. The fish swallowed that and, becoming stupefied, floated about with their white bellies uppermost. Arabs went in pursuit of them on blown-out sheepskins which they maneuvered with their feet while the hands were free to hold the landing net.
