REAL ESTATE TRANSFER OF EXCELLENT PROPERTY MADE

A real estate deal recorded in the past week shows that the demand for good property in Ontario is being maintained and that good purchases promise adequate returns to investors in Ontario property. The deal mentioned above was that of the R. S. Rutherford property on the corner of Oregon street and Montana avenue purchased by Fred Lawson of the Independent Market, and includes three lots, on the inside of which is the Rutherford two-story dwelling. The consideration was $3,500 which is deemed by those who know values, an extremely attractive price for the buyer. The property is next to the Oregon Trail Garage which sold this spring for $32,000. While the property is now used for residential purposes, it is right at the edge of the business district and ultimately will be business property. Mr. Lawson has not determined upon what course to take in improving the property but has under contemplation the erection of an apartment house.

Since coming to the city he has taken an active interest in the affairs of the Oregon club, the Shrine club and other social and business activities.

PLAN FLOODLIGHTS ON TRAIN

Illumination of Route Said to Be in Contemplation by a Leading Railroad System.

Brilliant night illumination of its picturesque transcontinental route is the plan contemplated by a large railroad system in this country, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The idea, as conceived at present, is to equip the observation coaches of its fast limited trains with a battery of powerful floodlights. These lights would be arranged to cover a range of approximately 180 degrees, with sufficient height and depth to illuminate the canyons, rivers, lakes and mountains in the vicinity of the right of way, as the train rushes on through the night. Power for operating the lamps would be furnished by the axle-driven generators with which railroad cars are now commonly equipped, and which ordinarily are never used to their full capacity.

Although thus far the location of the floodlights has been confined to the observation car, certain officials have suggested the advisability of placing them along the full length of the train. Also, further to enhance the effect, it has been proposed to employ lamps, or reflectors of various colors, which would undoubtedly yield fairylike scenes, particularly when directed upon snow-covered surfaces. Railroad men in authority have nothing but praise for the scheme, and while eagerly awaiting the completion of the initial floodlighting equipment, have pointed out the fact that there is an additional and practical value of the brilliant lights as a protection against rear-end collisions.

CAMEOS MADE BY MACHINERY

Engraving, Such as Was Common in the Earlier Ages, Has Practically Become Lost Art.

The engraving of cameos has practically ceased to be pursued as an art. Roman manufacturers cut stones in large quantities to be used as scarf studs and as settings in finger rings; and in Rome and Paris an extensive trade is carried on in the cutting of shell cameos, which are largely exported into England and mounted in brooches.

The principal shell used is the large bull's mouth shell, found in East Indian seas, which has a sard-like underlayer. The black helmet of Madagascar and the pinky queen's conch of the West Indies are also used.

The famous potter, Josiah Wedgwood, introduced a method of making imitations of cameos in pottery by producing white figures on a colored ground, this constituting the peculiarity of what is known as Wedgwood ware. These cheap cameos are largely machine made, or are turned out by rough workmen and touched up by the better type of artists. In some cases these cameos are made of stone, such as cornelian, sardonyx and coral, but none of them are of a high type of art.

Under Advisement.

"A newly elected squire in Wisconsin," says a western lawyer, "was much elated by his honors, but was not sure that he could carry them gracefully. So he haunted the courthouse to gather stray crumbs of wisdom from higher courts which sat there."

"One day he sat in judgment on his first case, and when the testimony was all in and the argument made, he announced:

"The court takes this case under advisement until Wednesday morning next, when it will render a verdict in favor of the plaintiff." —Pittsburg Dispatch.

wil prove that," they both said.

Prices Vary in Pools

Mr. Hall reported that the growers will net from the first pool which ended the week of October 14, $1.65 per crate, the second week the price for the pool averaged $1.35 per crate, the third week the average was $1.15 per crate; the fourth week $1.45 per crate, the fifth week $1.60 to $1.65, and the last week, of the few cars not yet reported upon keep up the average of those reported the price per crate to the growers will be $1.80 per crate.

"No fancy lettuce was grown this year," said Mr. Hall. "This was due probably to the weather conditions, and to the lack of experience in growing under which many of the ranchers worked. Some fine lettuce was raised, but little or no fancy. There was even a limited quantity of U. S. No. 1.

Lettuce Can Be Over Done

"Yes, lettuce can be over done in this section" said Mr. Hall. "If all the acreage originally planted from Weiser to Ashton had matured the market would not have been as strong as it was. However if the grower averages as much as 75c per crate he is doing well," he said.

Strike Delayed Start

"A strike on the part of the packers employed in the Imperial Valley to come here to pack lettuce, and the inadequate freight service on box trucks was the cause in the delay in getting the packing plants ready on the date first given the growers," explained Mr. McCall, who also discussed some of the many things learned by the growers this year.

"We had contracts for 1500 acres between Ashton and Weiser said Mr. McCall and we prepared to handle at least that many cars, when we actually only shipped 226 cars. All the overhead for a business of 1500 cars is thus placed on the 226 actually shipped.

"The failure of the crops due to hot weather was something that no one could foresee, and came so suddenly that we were taken by complete surprise and had to work out the best we could. The charge of 20 cents per crate made to the growers has been credited to them and will be repaid next year and the year following from the savings possible by reason of the fact that the supplies we have on hand can be used next year."

The producers union sold approximately one-third of all the lettuce sold from the territory and the growers at the meeting after listening to the rumors as to prices paid to other growers apparently were satisfied that they got on an average as much, if not more than other growers will net. So far the growers of the Producers Union are the only ones who have actually received cash for their crops, so far as could be learned.

the average price received by the producers was about 42 cents per bushel. The price in some cases went as low as 15 cents per bushel. The company still has a large quantity of sacks on hand and has not determined upon a plan for settlement for those advanced but not used.
