RIVERDALE

TWO BOYS DROWN WHEN CAR PLUNGES INTO SNAKE RIVER

Inter-State Bridge Between Weiser and Riverdale Scene of Sad Accident—Car but Not Bodies Recovered—Other Riverdale Items

Gerald Evans and Howard Lee, two Weiser boys were drowned Sunday morning when the Ford runabout in which they were driving across the bridge, plunged through the railing into the waters of the Snake river. Searching parties recovered the car but the bodies were not recovered though searching parties have been at work ever since the accident.

It is believed that the car in which the boys were driving hit a loose plank, and since they were driving fast the car was thrown against the rail so hard that it crushed the rail. J. Hancock, who was crossing the bridge at the time turned and saw the accident and tried to save the boys after they rose to the surface by throwing a plank to them, but before he could do so they sank never to rise again.

The saddest feature of the accident is that it all but wipes out the Evans family, leaving the mother its lone survivor, all of the others having been drowned in the waters of the Snake. Fourteen years ago Mrs. Emma Evans, Gerald's mother, saw her husband and a son and daughter drown while she tried in vain to aid them.

Young Lee was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lee of Weiser. Searching parties have been engaged ever since the accident dragging the river dynamiting it and walking its banks as far as Huntington in the hope of recovering the bodies.

The first snow fell here Monday night.

Mrs. Charlie Spence and three children left recently for their home near Wellsville, Utah where they will spend the winter with relatives.

Mrs. H. G. Joseph entertained a number of friends at dinner Thanksgiving.
