FIRST DECISION IN LAND CONTEST Burns Land Office Officials Sustain Allegations of Contestant Coffelt on Reed Homestead A decision in the homestead case of Enoch J. Coffelt versus Fred Reed, which has been watched with interest, was passed upon and received this week from Register Farre and Receiver Davey of the Burns land office. Although the case is still to be passed upon by the special land commissioner at Washington, the local land office sustained the allegations of Coffelt, the contestant. The tract of land consists of 160 acres, one and a half miles west of Vale. In the hearing before C. C. Mueller some weeks ago, Coffelt was represented by Attorney H. C. Eastham and Fred Reed by Attorney G. W. Hayes. Through numerous witnesses it was shown that Reed and his family had been living on a leased farm three-quarters of a mile from the homestead, but frequently went there with one of his sons to stay over night in the small cabin. Since the contest has started Reed had plowed part of his homestead, outside of that no improvement, even in the way of fences, had been made.

BETTER ROADS BETWEEN VALE AND ONTARIO County roads are being improved this week and the work will continue throughout the summer. County Road Master Gibson stated a few days ago that he had a crew working west of town while another crew was widening and leveling the grades between here and Ontario. He expects to have the roads in good condition for fall, better than they ever have been before. STOVALL CHILDREN TAKEN TO PORTLAND BOYS & GIRLS SOCIETY County Judge and Mrs. B. C. Richardson left on Monday with the four Stovall children, who will be placed in care of the Boys & Girls Society, of Portland. As the mother, Mrs. Ella Stovall, could not be found the judge took immediate action for providing a home for the homeless children. Try our flour and save money at Hunt & Chesters.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT IN UNION COUNTY J. N. Jones, Brother of Mrs. Neely, Of This City, Dies in Agony Of Pain J. N. Jones, a highly respected citizen of Cove, met death Thursday in a frightful manner. Mr. Jones was steering a traction engine across a bridge, in west of Cove, Union county. At the further edge of the bridge the approach gave way and the rear end of the engine sank down, pinning Mr. Jones to the dirt wall. The steam valve gave way and for nearly an hour the hot water and scalding steam poured over the unfortunate man literally cooking the skin and flesh. After being extricated Mr. Jones was taken to his home at Cove where he died in agony after suffering about ten hours. The accident occurred at the bridge over Catherine creek just west of Phy's point. Mr. Jones was a brother of Mrs. H. C. Neely, of this city, and was about 40 years of age. Mrs. Neely left on Friday of last week on hearing of the sad accident and attended the funeral of her brother.

BOOTLEGGER GETS HEAVY SENTENCE W. M. Schuck Caught With The Goods at Brogan—Found Guilty By Jury W. M. Schuck, a bootlegger, who has been operating in Brogan for several months, was fined $200 and 30 days in the county jail as the result of his trial by jury on last Monday in this city. Schuck plead not guilty, but so strong was the evidence against him that Justice Wilson imposed a heavy sentence. It is said that Schuck was operating a regular bar in his tent at Brogan. A charge of running a gambling house may later be brought up against him. Ask for prices on flour at Hunt & Chesters. Go to T. T. Nelsen's for furniture.
