Might Get Killed A victim who had been "held up" the night before was telling some of friends about it. "But one thing I've learned. After this I keep my money in the bank. Of course they're always telling you you about the danger of being robbed and that you ought to keep your money in a bank, but there is another side to the story. That fellow might have killed me last night! Now has a man any right to RISK HIS LIFE for a few dollars? A man can stand to be robbed of a few dollars if he don't want to keep his money in a bank but when it's a case of danger of life, you can't take the risk." Did you ever look at it this way? A HORRIBLE VISION Our manager recently had a weird dream: He was peacefully reposing upon his bed when a strange noise caused him to partially rise, to find himself gazing into a pair of fierce looking eyes not two feet away. The creature bending over his bed was fearfully and wonderfully made. The manager was mad and wanted to say "The Devil," but was also scared, and could only feebly gasp, "Wh - - - wh - - - what have I d - - - done?" His Satanic Majesty straightened up and smiled—yep laughed—for he had a keen sense of humor.
