BRIEF WAR NEWS

Out of the state of virtual deadlock, which for weeks has existed in the east and west, there have sprung during the last few days military events of more importance than followers of the war expected at this time. They are, briefly: The Russian offensive toward new points on the frontiers of East Prussia and Posen; the fighting at Soissons; the expected Turkish advance on Egypt and the plans for a renewed attack on Serbia by combined Austro-German forces.

To the west of Warsaw large German forces are still concentrated, but they are gaining little ground and it is thought likely that the fighting which will develop as a result of the new Russian movement may, for the time being, overshadow the fighting for the Polish capital. It is even suggested that Field Marshal von Hindenburg held in check along the Ezura and Rawka rivers, is about to initiate a fresh movement of German troops either from Thorn or from East Prussia, and that the Russian advance toward the German frontier is intended to forestall this attempt.

The British press concedes that the Germans were victors in the recent fighting near Soissons. Military writers, speculating as to the reason for Emperor William's presence at the front during the fighting near Soissons, suggest that General von Kluck "either requested the emperor to come and inspire enthusiasm among the weary troops, or else felt so sure of his ability to force back the French over the river, that he desired to have the emperor witness the victory."

Dispatches reaching London assert that the Germans have not abandoned hope of reaching Calais, and are planning a new offensive in Belgium and northern France. According to these advices, train after train, loaded with troops, is moving into Flanders. With the touch so often added heretofore on the occasion of any approaching holiday or anniversary, these dispatches say that the German soldiers hope to present Calais to Emperor William for a birthday present.

Only a small fraction of the British military writers profess to see in the German advance at Soissons any new threat against Paris. They pay more attention, however, to the cumulative indications that the Turks have determined to attempt an invasion of Egypt. The general feeling is that any such raid could be checked, as the Turks would have to reckon with not only the British troops, but with warships, which, operating in the Suez canal, off Akabah, Arabis and at other points, will be able to share in the work of opposing the invaders.

Aware of the fact that it is less difficult to cross the desert in winter than in summer, the Turks are said to be massing troops with all possible speed south of Syria.

Latest advices relative to the prospective Austro-German attack on Serbia say that Bavarians and Prussians are on the way to Budapest to effect a junction with the remnants of four or five Austrian army corps which suffered so severely at the hands of the Servians.
