

Staff of Faithful Correspondents in Every Nook of Malheur County

There are many well advanced and prosperous communities in Malheur county. With only 10 per cent of the farming land of the county in cultivation, it ranks as the first county of Oregon in corn alfalfa, sheep, and wool production and second in cattle and hay. The towns and cities are progressive. City and country schools are the best in the West. A marked increase of homeseekers is continual. The climate is mild and pleasant. Roads are fairly good, and railroad facilities are exceptional. The people are the best in the world.

THIRD HAY CROP CUT
Entertain Drafted Men--Undergoes Operation at Weiser--Gets Winter Wood.

RIVERDALE, Oreg., Sept. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Pearce returned to Salt Lake City Monday evening after spending the spring and summer here.
N. F. Kimball recently underwent an operation at the Weiser hospital for a growth on his back which has been giving him much trouble for some time. The operation was successful and Mr. Kimball will be out soon. It was thought it might be very serious on account of his advanced age of seventy five years, however his many friends are hoping that he will be much stronger than for many years and that the thread of life may be greatly lengthened.
Leonard Pease has been released from the Army service for the present.
Farmers are busy cutting third crop of alfalfa. Some will try for a fourth crop. Little is being sold for the reason that some are figuring on an advance in price while many others say the price will be compelled to drop because dairymen and cattlemen cannot afford to pay the high price and stock are still being shipped out in great numbers. Unless a halt is called little will be left to feed by Christians.
