CORRESPONDENT VISITS

Mrs. B. Schlup, of Harper, Or., who is representing the Enterprise in a news way at that place, was a caller at the Enterprise office Tuesday. Mrs. Schlup is a constant booster for the Harper country, and delights telling of its wonderful resources.

"We have a young man who is still picking strawberries from his garden," stated Mrs. Schlup. "This sounds almost unbelievable, but he has a method of his own, and the climate is so warm there at all seasons, that he plans on putting out a thousand vines next year, and making a commercial use of the berries. Another unheard-of thing—we are producing ripe muskmelons at the present time, which are of as good a variety and taste as can be found any where."

Mrs. Schlup was in town for the purpose of bringing her little granddaughter in for medical treatment, and left for her home Tuesday.
