SUGAR SAVING REQUIRES BACK BONE.

"There is one food which practically everyone likes," says a recent Food Administration bulletin, "Whether people have strength to deny themselves is a real test of will power and character. That food is sugar."

"The fact that sugar in one form or another is a food which ninety-nine persons in a hundred enjoy is no vague theory demanding demonstration. Every body is aware how fond children are of sugar, and the taste is one which in later years may be modified but is seldom outgrown. The capacity to change from eating a certain amount of sugar to eating less indicates definite will power, or to put it more informally, backbone. In fact it probably takes more of the out-and-out spirit of self-denial voluntarily to cut down one's sugar than to give up any other food; for sugar, in the popular mind, is associated not chiefly with nourishment, but with the pleasurable side of life, with boxes of candy and cool soda fountains dispensing sweet drinks, and so on.

"Yet there has got to be a curtailment of some of the pleasures which use up sugar if the supply is to hold out. Owing to world-wide ship shortage, this country will have to get along with less sugar than in the past. This may in part be accomplished by using less in the kitchen of the home, and by regulative measures of effecting the quantity procurable by the trade.

"When a sport is not a sport. Most hunters and fishermen are real sports. Others only appear to be. The real sport is careful to keep the game laws of the state at all times the same as he would if a warden were on his tracks. The principle back of game preservation and the various game regulations is to keep game in the country and to make possible a continuation of the outdoor sports of hunting and fishing. A basket full of little trout will fill a dozen baskets if allowed to mature. A mother bird killed in the spring will raise a number of tender fry by fall. This should be remembered and the best way is to forget the idea that it is smart to get away with out-of-season game; and to remember that all sportsmen belong to the great out of door fraternity, membership in which requires a sense of fairness and the exercise of a little common sense as well as the matter of paying annual dues of $1.50 in the form of hunting and fishing licenses. This is not a tax; but is a contribution toward a fund that, under the direction of State Game Warden, Carl D. Shoemaker and his assistants, is keeping the streams stocked with trout and the hills and valleys populated with game birds. The poorest sport, the would-be sport who is no sport at all, is the slacker who persistently hunts and fishes without paying his dues, that is without buying a license.

SALES DAY PROPOSAL. It has been proposed that the business men of Vale inaugurate a monthly sales day. Mr. Griffin has offered the use of his stables without charge and while it will require considerable effort and a lot of push and stick-to-it-iveness there is no question but that it will prove a mighty popular move, once established. It will bring the country people to Vale and as soon as a reputation is established will make Vale one of the big centers in live stock exchange. It will equally prove beneficial to the farmers and stock men who will then be able to find a market at home for their horses, cattle etc. Not the least benefit however will be derived from a monthly get-together of the farmers, stock men and town people. The Tuesday luncheons are getting the business men of Vale better acquainted with one another and they are learning the benefits to be derived from cooperation and united effort. The monthly sales will do the same things on a larger scale and many benefits will indirectly be derived for the good of the county.

JAPAN'S OPPORTUNITY. Japan has been wanting to get into the war game for some time but for some reason has been held back by her allies. Now that she is permitted to take a hand in the reconstruction of Russia many are of the opinion that she will do her duty and do it well. Japan is an exceedingly ambitious nation and she now has an opportunity of doing a great work. It is true that America is to work in conjunction but the few details that have so far been made public are to the effect that Japan is to do the major part. Russia is a great nation and the friendship of a next door neighbor whose population exceeds 140,000,000 is a legacy that Japan is shrewd to lose. Not only will Japan secure this prestige but will receive the praise of all the world. So will America, for without our help Japan could accomplish little, as Russia was suspicious of her neighbor until America gave assurances of fair play.

YIELD EQUALING NORTHWEST'S FOR BOOZE. President Wilson after several years careful consideration has come out strongly in favor of Women's suffrage. Our prohibition friends should have hope, he may yet decide to permit the nation to become dry. Mr. Hoover is authority for the statement that four and a half billion bushels of grain is being consumed monthly in the manufacture of whisky and beer. This is just about the annual yield of wheat in the states of Oregon Washington and Idaho. Not a few believe that this waste should be conserved and sent to our boys in the trenches. At any rate those of us at home would be glad to eliminate this proportion of substitutes. Congress is expected to take action the latter part of this month on nation wide prohibition.

STRENGTHENING OUR NEUTRALS. Human nature is the same the world over. We all want to be on the winning side. Nothing succeeds like success. This is once more exemplified in the attitude of several of the small neutral nations whose real sympathy is with the allied cause but they were afraid of Germany success. Since the crushing defeat administered the last few days there is quite a noticeable change in the tone of the press. These countries are in a position to know what America is doing and is capable of doing, and they know now what the final result will be and if the war continues two years more several of these neutrals will be allies.

While the German press was trying to make her people believe that her U-boats were doing great damage on the American Atlantic coast, we shipped 300,000 well trained soldiers over seas during July without the loss of a single man.

Y.M.C.A. ADDS TO FIGHTING VALUE To the Offices of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. in New York there came in May an entirely unsolicited letter from the Headquarters of General Pershing. Contained in it were these quotations: "Give us nine men and the Y. M. C. A., and we will have a more effective fighting force than as though we had ten men without the Y. M. C. A." If their estimate is correct—and headquarters surely ought to know—then the Y. M. C. A. is at this moment adding 10 per cent—100,000 men—to the fighting power of our armies in France.

"Keep your eye on Pasco" was a popular slogan several years ago. Pasco became a city of over 4,000. Keep your eye on Vale, history often repeats itself, and the Vale spirit will make it do even better.
