How To Develop Good Teeth

YOUR teeth need exercise daily. By masticating the hard and rougher sort of food they can best be kept in condition. Hard crusts and other coarse and fibrous foods which require thorough chewing before they can be swallowed, are especially good, not only for children but for adults also. It helps to produce a good circulation of blood and in children develops the muscles and expands the jaws, so that the room is provided for the incoming larger teeth. Children should be allowed to eat only at regular hours. A child should be taught to chew his food very thoroughly.

Proper training and care of the teeth in childhood establish habits, which will appreciate in after years. A few minutes longer with the tooth-brush each morning and night—a visit to a good dentist at intervals—will save lots of unnecessary pain and a void pool health which will surely follow neglect of the mouth and teeth.

After everyone had enjoyed a real country dinner topped off by ice cream an afternoon service was held.
