Trim and Incinerate Weeds

Now is the time, for all good men and true, together with their wives and children and all of their relatives, to come to the relief of what is proving an unsightly eyesore to all of the residents of Vale as well as to the stranger in our midst, by cutting the weeds from the vacant lots and from out the streets and the sidewalks. There is a veritable harvest of the villainous herbage that has spread over sidewalks and pathways in most every part of Vale and in some places downtown, they are encroaching on the already unsightliness of the landscape and townspeople's appearance generally, which is bad enough in the impression that is created to the person who comes here from other parts, without the negligent and unnecessary growth of the shameful weeds that are allowed to produce their seed and then next year there will be even a larger crop than ever.

The weeds when trampled by the assembly, give forth an offensive odor that is odiously repulsive to the finer sensibilities. From the standpoint of sanitation alone, they should be cut and the stubble thereafter destroyed by fire. There is enough evil with us at all times and in all phases of animal life, without permitting the inanimate things of evil to flout their ranks and offensive propagation in the face of every one.

The city council recently passed a resolution to the effect that the property owners of the city shall be compelled to cut all weeds on their lots anywhere in the city limits and there is no better time to begin than right now. Clean up for the Pioneer celebration. The city of Vale will clean up weeds out of the streets if you will get busy on your lot or lots.

Coolidge at Close Range

Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican nominee for Vice-President, has a personality that grows on you with acquaintance. Everyone admits that he is of presidential caliber, and the public and press have received approval Senator Harding's statement he will welcome, when elected Vice-President Coolidge into the councils of his official family. Vice-President Coolidge will therefore be a real assistant to the President and not merely the presiding officer of the Senate.

Governor Coolidge is known in Massachusetts as "Silent Cal, Sphinx of Hampshire county."

One of the canniest, cleverest, most silent and most epigrammatic political who ever slowly but surely climbed the political ladder.

"Sticker" to Puritan standards, speaking with an old-fashioned Yankee drawl.

Thorough master of the English and of brevity.

Devoted husband to his vivacious wife, whom he is said to have wooed and won with fewer words than ever before on record. (They are a "study in opposites.")

 Chum of his two fine boys—John and Cavlin, Jr. aged twelve and thirteen respectively

"THE POT AND THE KETTLE"

From History of the American People, Vol. 4, Page 102, by Woodrow Wilson

In April, 1844, President Tyler sent to the Senate of the United States, a Treaty of Annexation, which he had negotiated with Texas. Secret negotiation, a piece of business privately carried to completion and made public only when finished, suited well with the President's temper and way of action. A man naturally secretive fond, not of concealment, but quiet subtle management, not insincere, but indirect in the ways of his approach, he relished statecraft of this sort. The Senate rejected the Treaty by very decisive vote of 16 to 35. Men of both parties alike, were deeply irritated, that the President should spring this treaty matter upon the country in such a fashion, taking no counsel beforehand, save such as he alone choose to take. (A-47).

SENATOR HARDING

After the first inspection of Senator Harding as presidential candidate, the voters who have political leanings in his direction are early in the campaign pretty generally ready to give him their stamp of approval.—Klamath Falls Record.

REPRESENT THE PEOPLE

Happily the Republican party seems to have happened upon a pair of candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency who are typical representatives of the common people and the average national everyday life. There are two working methods of government and one is the case of the superman, who uses his personal talents to rule others. The second method is a popular voice of government in which the citizens select executives from among their own number to do the governing. The nomination of Harding and Coolidge, then, ought to give the popular government system an exceedingly fair chance again.—Burns News.

REAL DIRT FARMERS

Mr. Cox need not worry about the farmers. The Republican administration that is going to follow the Democratic regime will see to it that a real farmer fills the portfolio of secretary of agriculture.—Albany Herald.

HARDING SHOWS POLITICAL SENSE

Medford, Ore., Aug. 21, 1920.—One thing we like about Harding is his refusal to indulge in personalities or abuse. We have yet to hear him mention President Wilson or Governor Cox with anything approaching bitterness or disrespect. In this direction the Republican nominee shows not only excellent taste but sound political sense.—Medford Tribune.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

(From Portland Daily Oregonian.)
 The justice of providing for the vocational education of persons insured in industry is a lesson from the war.
 An act of Congress provides for federal co-operation with the states and appropriates $750,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922.
 It seeks to make concrete the growing desire that no man shall be deprived of the means of earning an honest living through circumstances involving no fault of his own.
 This industrial rehabilitation measure promises to revolutionize our conception of the place of so-called cripples in the world.
 The number of annual victims of industrial accidents is very large, exceeding the number of those disabled in the period of active fighting in the war.
 The old way was to abandon the victim to mendacity and to accept him as a zero in production; the new is to encourage him to add to the wealth of the world.
 In dollars and cents as well as in impermissible ways, the industrial victim repays many times over the money expended on his re-education.

Had Plenty of Time.

"Yes, boys," continued the sleepy Jack, who was telling "true and thrilling stories," "yes, I was working a clock tower one afternoon about twelve minutes to 6, when I slipped, slid down the roof and caught on the long hand of the clock. There I dangled while the town folks collected below. So I yelled to 'em, 'Say you folks, go home to your suppers, it'll be close to half an hour before I drop.'"

Snakes' Power Over Birds.

The bureau of biological survey states that snakes do not charm birds in the understood sense of the word "charm." The instinctive fear that a bird or small animal, such as a rabbit, has for a snake paralyzes the muscles of the bird or animal and prevents its escaping from the snake.

To Clean Papered Window.

To remove stained paper from glass use lye. Dissolve in water and apply with an old sponge, being careful not to burn your hands. Leave on for a few minutes and scrape off with a knife. Another way is to wet the paper well with common ammonia or boiling hot vinegar.
