RESPONSIBILITY OF CITIZENSHIP.

The citizen who is a descendant of those who made Old Glory the symbol of our strong nation, who has pride in the might of our country, and who loves the flag and all it implies, is the man who will go to the polls on May 19, and vote carefully, intelligently and for what he himself thinks is just, and he will nominate the candidate who will fill the office for the service he can render his country, and not for the man who desires it for private gain.
Among the most important duties of citizenship are voting and office holding. Every individual should join the political party of his choice, study the measures to be voted on, and the records and platforms of candidates and then follow the dictates of his own conscience. No good citizen stays away from the polls on election day. The holding of public office is a duty of citizenship to be performed by many. Men of ability and honor often do not care to give up their time to the holding of public office, but the public needs this kind of men, not those who want the office for private gain. If the right man gets the office and his service is satisfactory and for the public good, he should be kept there. If the other kind gets the office and proves incapable, dishonest and inefficient, he must be ousted and another given the place.
Because our government is representative, its welfare depends upon the interest its citizens take in it, and the development or deterioration of the government depends upon the standard of its citizenship. The citizen who carries out his duties honestly, who votes conscientiously, who performs the duties of public office unselfishly, is the man the present exigency calls for. Citizens of that type are those who will

BROGAN'S FESTIVAL.

On this Saturday Brogan will hold her Apple Blossom Festival, but she will not stick strictly to the blossoms of the apples but should have a few other varieties out in full bloom.
Outside of the good time which is promised, consisting of the barbecue, entertainments and dances, she is giving the people of Malheur county and the outside a chance to come in and visit, seeing at first hand what a wonderful valley the Brogan River valley really is. This kind of advertisement is not of the old, hollow "boom" type, but will bring visitors in who will build homes and farm the land, gradually developing the community firmly and substantially. It will not attract the speculator who is merely a non-producer but will invite the home-maker, who will raise his family and become a worthy and conscientious citizen.
That Brogan has something to show the visitor is a self-evident fact to anyone who has been through the valley. Fruit of all kinds grow hardily and abundantly, alfalfa is certain of three crops a year, and vegetables and grains thrive and produce large yields.
And bear in mind that the Brogan valley is one of the many valleys throughout this great Malheur county which is under irrigation, with sufficient water, the proper climate and a quality of soil which assures an agricultural success. It is little wonder that we are justly proud of the county in which we live.

The primary election is fast approaching. It's a man's duty to vote if he has to pick out the name that sounds best, because he can't kick about the government with a clear conscience unless he does vote. It isn't a bad idea to talk politics with your neighbor and find out who's running for office before you see the ballot.
With a street graveled, graded and with a concrete gutter, it looks like the city was kind of putting on a bit of spring finery, and there won't be much kicking if she continues to doll up.
Well, well, the city well is down 28 feet and we will soon have a 24-hour water service, which is just as many hours a day as New York has.
The Women's Club has a reason for offering the boys eats to help them clean up the cemetery Wednesday, May 24th. They want a crowd out.
Spring weather cures the blues—but in the springtime when old Jack Frost comes stealing in at night it makes the orchardist cuss.

Last Sunday some of Vale's baseball stars put off taking their after dinner nap until they got on the diamond.

Public Forum

A Challenge to Show Law or Authority.
To Dalton Biggs, Judge of the Circuit Court, Malheur County, State of Oregon:
As judge of the circuit court for Malheur county, it is presumed that you are, or should be, versed in the law, but I challenge you to show by what authority, or rule, or decision or statutory law, you can hold that any user of water in Willow Creek valley is entitled to more than three acre feet, in face of the fact that the Supreme Court, acting on the award of the Water Board, fixed the duty of water, and established three acre feet as the maximum; also by what authority you have for passing any opinion on what water falls after the irrigation season begins, in the way of rains, showers or cloudbursts, as to who has the first or prior right to the use of such water; how could you control the elements in any summer beginning with the month of May until September of any given year in Willow Creek valley; by what rule of law is it necessary or is provided that a user of water has the right to demand of the water master that he turn to him water and thus deprive other lands that have had the continuous use of such water for more than 40 years, without protest, or contest or claim by any other person or user of water from the same stream; three acre feet being the duty of water in Willow Creek valley, when shall this amount be measured, during the spring after the ground is in shape to be benefited, and when there is plenty of water, or in the middle of the summer, when water is short, or none to be had?

Respectfully,
D. F. BOGGS.

Ralph E. Williams, Republican National Committeeman, Portland, Oregon.
Mutual friends have told me that you are a candidate for re-election as Republican National Committeeman this year, and I am constrained to send just this word of appreciation for your splendid service on the committee all the time that I was chairman. Your election as vice-chairman of the national committee was the fullest possible evidence of the committee's gratitude to you and their confidence in your great future usefulness to the committee and to the party. In this I join most heartily. Kindest regards and best wishes always.

VOTE X 13
Mr. Williams for Committeeman.
Will H. Hays, who but lately retired as chairman of the republican national committee, pays tribute in a telegram to the service performed to the republican party by the committee for Oregon, Ralph E. Williams. Mr. Hays should know. His testimony may be accepted as something more than a mere formal expression of approval. To be expected from one member of the organization for another; for it is supported by the entire committee, which, not many months ago, by unanimous vote of the representatives of forty-eight states elected Mr. Williams vice-chairman. He is the oldest member in point of service, and it is obvious—it is not denied by anyone—that his standing with the heads of the republican party is very high.
The national committeemanship is a party job. It pays nothing in salary but it carries many responsibilities, and calls for work. Its rewards are, of course, recognition of leadership, and the prestige and influence that go with it. Mr. Williams has been the committeeman for Oregon for 14 years, and is a candidate for re-election. There is no good reason why he should not be re-elected; there are good reasons why he should be, the most obvious and unanswerable of which is that he has a high place with the committee in terms of intimacy and confidence with the national leaders of the republican party, is in line for the national chairmanship, and can, and doubtless will, perform service which no new man, whatever his qualities, can possibly perform.
The Oregonian is reluctant to interfere in the contest for national committeemanship; but the advantages to the republican party in Oregon of Mr. Williams' election are so plain that it feels it should point them out.
