OWYHEE

HOT SPRINGS PICNIC

PEOPLE FROM OWYHEE ATTEND SCHOOL PICNIC LAST THURSDAY.

Mrs. David E. Tufts and daughter, Miss Margaret, arrived Tuesday for a fortnight's visit with her daughters Mrs. F. DeBord and Mrs. Fred Klingback and families.

The funeral of "Grandpa" Bradley on Saturday was largely attended by Nyssa and Owyhee friends. Services were conducted by Rev. Chas. Blom, of Ontario, pastor of the church of which for many years he was a member. Music was furnished by the Owyhee choir. Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The obituary appears elsewhere in this issue.

Wm. Welch, of Big Bend deputy assessor, was paying official visit along the river last week.

Carl Schweizer is taking cornet lessons of Claude Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival, who have been employed all spring at the John Rust ranch, moved back to Nampa the first of the week.

Fred Klingback sold a number of young hogs to Mrs. Mattie Thompson, delivering them Friday.

Born—May 19, to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rippey, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kaylor and family and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott and family attended the school picnic at the Upper Hot Springs Thursday. Thirty-two people, in all, attended and though they got drenched in a pouring rain and enjoyed the pleasure of drying off by a sagebrush fire, they all reported a jolly time and a strenuous climb with plenty of ice-cream to eat.

Sheriff Lee Noe and a deputy passed through Owyhee Friday with a captured still and operator in the back of the car.

Oscar Pinkston, who has been visiting relatives here, returned to the timber where he is working, near Baker, Thursday.

The cut through Owyhee hill, which contract is held by W. W. Howard, of Ontario, is progressing rapidly. Though not completed it has been open to traffic for some time.

Edna Elliott stepped on a piece of glass a few days ago and painfully injured her foot.

Miss Lillian Davis has just completed a successful term of school in the lower grades and returned Friday to her home in Vale.

Primary election board this year were Mr. and Mrs. R. Overstreet, M. and Mrs. T. M. Lowe, Mrs. S. D. Bigelow and Mrs. Chas. Schweizer. This community went strong for the recall of the public service men.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beam of Warren district had the misfortune to lose their home by fire while absent at lodge Tuesday evening.

A letter from Mrs. Everett Kygar, of Devil Slide, Utah, states that they are parents of a three-month-old daughter, which was surprising news to relatives here. Lyman Kygar is with them and expects to remain until September.

Mrs. Chas. Fisher called at the Claude Smith home Friday.

The Kolony canning team, with their leader, Mrs. Conrad Martin, spent Friday afternoon at the DeBord home. After the business meeting the members practiced songs, talked and went fishing.

Mrs. J. K. Williams has been on the sick list for a few days. However, she is much improved.

Orchardists are busy with the second spraying of fruit trees. Prospects are for a generous supply of fruit again this year.

The graving crew for the highway are having their share of grief—having killed two horses and crippled five others recently hauling gravel down a steep—very steep grade. The temporary road has been changed and everything is moving smoothly again.

A number of officers raided a ranch on Dead Ox Flat Wednesday night, finding much evidence of what had been going on and prospects for the future in the way of about 15 gallons of mash covered with stable manure to cause fermentation and to hide it from curiosity seekers and officers who might be traveling that way. It is believed that the parties have been peddling the fiery stuff in Weiser and surrounding territory for some months.

To organize a co-operative bull association it is first advisable to arouse as much interest as possible in the plan through meetings, conversation, and the circulation of Department of Agriculture literature. It is possible that the county agent or even some state or federal agricultural representative can be induced to help personally. Advice can always be obtained from the department by mail. Forms can be had from the department for a preliminary agreement, in which, among other things, the number of cows owned by each prospective member is listed. When a sufficient number of cows have been listed, a meeting should be called and arrangements made for incorporation. Each member would contribute in proportion to the number of cows he owns, but would have only one vote.

As early as possible, the temporary or permanent secretary should begin corresponding with breeders having high-grade bulls for sale. One bull should be purchased for about every 75 cows. The cows should be divided into blocks of that number, with regard to geographical convenience, and arrangements made for the keeping of the bull by a responsible member whose farm is conveniently located. The fees should be such as to cover the purchase cost and the cost of keep for a year, and annual assessments provided thereafter.

Valuable information on the formation and conduct of bull associations will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 963, which the department will send free on request. Supplemental information, including plans for a model bull pen, and data on the operation and success of various established bull associations can also be had by correspondence. The department is doing everything in its power to promote the co-operative bull association movement as one of the most valuable advances in modern dairying.

Gentleness With Cows. Cows respond to gentle treatment. The dairymen who makes pets of his calves and who continues to fondle the animals even after they have dropped their own calves is almost certain to possess a herd of good milkers.

The dance given by the baseball team Friday night was not very well attended on account of the recent rains making the roads almost impassable.

Mrs. Alice Morfitt took her departure Thursday for LaGrande on an extended visit with relatives.

Mr. Roe of the Davidson Grocery of Boise was a business visitor here one day last week.

DAIRY POINTS

PLAN FOR BULL ASSOCIATION

Idea Has Been in Use in Europe for Many Years, But Is Comparatively New Here.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every dairy farmer knows that he would get better returns from his feed and labor if he had high-grade stock; but the idea of establishing a blooded herd immediately suggests "kid glove" farming and bankruptcy. "Two-thousand dollar cows and two-dollar milk" was one farmer's characterization.

Yet the United States Department of Agriculture annually is leading hundreds of farmers toward the possession of herds that will increase the former milk and butterfat yield with the same outlay for upkeep. One of the most useful agencies is the co-operative bull association.

A high-grade cow will impart her excellent qualities to one calf in a year, and the total of high grade farm cattle is increased by one. On the other hand, a bull whose mother had the same milk and butter qualifications, and whose father is descended from a milk and butter strain, may sire as many as 75 calves, each carrying its share of the racial excellence. This bull can do duty with one lot of cows.

Co-operative bull associations have existed in Europe for a long time. In America the system is only twelve or thirteen years old, but records of milk and butterfat production are in possession of the department, showing tangible benefit far exceeding the cost to the cow owners.

At New Windsor, Md., for instance, seven daughters of one sire averaged 70.5 pounds of butter fat a year, an improvement over the average of 20.3 pounds for their dams. This was only the first generation. The five-bull association will permit line breeding with greatly increased possibilities.

To organize a co-operative bull association it is first advisable to arouse as much interest as possible in the plan through meetings, conversation, and the circulation of Department of Agriculture literature. It is possible that the county agent or even some state or federal agricultural representative can be induced to help personally. Advice can always be obtained from the department by mail.
