People Making Up Minds
 That Strike Must Stop. Events of the last 30 days have created more sentiment for the people of the Kansas industrial court law than could have been created by many years of academic discussion. Take, for instance, the fruit growers of the Pacific northwest. Threatened with the loss of their year's labor and the expenditure of untold millions of dollars that they have into the work of production, they are in no mood to heed the argument of some of the railroad executives about 'right of capital' or Mr. Gomer's about the danger of subjecting coal miners and railway workers to 'industrial slavery.' The point comes clear to them, as it does to millions of other producers and to hundreds of thousands of tourist and other travelers, distressed by the danger of a blockade of the railroads, that the general public has rights which organized labor must be compelled to respect.

Thoughtful and unbiased citizens are ready to agree President Harding that while the right to organize and the right to quit work is conceded the right to abuse the privileges is not conceded.

In the end, as the president clearly sees, it is the public that must pay for this warfare and a large part of the public must pay doubly. If perishable food products are destroyed, the producers pay a heavy price, and in many instances are ruined, and later the general public must pay the price of higher living. The coal strike is settled, but the public will have to pay the price in the higher charges for fuel in the many months to come, and it is the general public that in the end must pay the losses resulting from the general derangement of the country's industries.

If the interests that own the coal mines, and the miners who work in them, and the interests that own and manage the railroads, and the employees who struck or who have threatened to strike, had designedly gone about arousing the public interest and depending the public opinion for the principle of government prohibition on conspiracy strikes and the lockouts in the country's vital industries, they could not have accomplished more than they have accomplished in the last 90 days.—Spokane Spokesman Review.

hundred million people—but, joining with others, moving in the same direction as we are going, we are a force which is not only the sum of it, but the group gains a certain additional momentum of its own.

Do you remember the Roman story of the bundle of sticks? It was easy to break one alone, but bound together, they could not be broken.

Women's clubs discovered long ago that if one individual should suggest to the mayor that she would like a drinking fountain on the corner, she would be ignored, but if the club appointed a committee to interview him on the subject, it would bring results.

So it is with the political party. Speaking for many, its voice is powerful. If the party is inauthentic, its voice is all-powerful, for the political party in power is, for the time being, the government.

You belong either to the government class or to the governed class. You take your choice—since the ballot is open to every adult citizen. It is told of Roosevelt, when a youth, that he suggested one evening going to a meeting of the ward politicians. Certain of his family remonstrated with him, saying, "They are a low class of people, saloon keepers and ignorant men." "Then," replied the young Roosevelt, "it is all the more necessary that I go. They are the governing class for they are controlling politics. We who stay away permit them to govern. I intend to belong to the governing class."

The other day in an immense national park, I noticed there were no pedestrians, although walking was not prohibited, but about one would never get very far on the winding road. With the immense complexities and problems of our great country one man's effort is negligible. To get anywhere we must annex ourselves to modern organized methods. There is nothing exclusive about a political party. On the contrary it is continually bidding for workers. At this period, the Republican party, is especially amenable to the efforts of women. Any earnest woman who wants to make her ballot of real use for the betterment of her home, her community and her nation and who has high altruistic purpose to serve her generation, will find a responsive field for her activities in the Republican party. The Republican party gave the ballot to the women. It has already placed women in office in towns, states and nation. If nominated and elected the two only women who have thus far been members of Congress.

In the present campaign, it has on its tickets, in the localities where there is a chance of election, more women candidates than all the other parties put together.

Other parties have nominated women candidates where there is no possible chance of election; that is no complaint to the sex, but rather shifting on them something that nobody wants.

If any woman wants to accomplish anything politically, she stands a splendid chance of doing it in the Republican party—much better than anywhere else.

Did you ever stop to think
 By E. R. Waite.

That your Chamber of Commerce does not confine its work to your city alone, but it has proven that it is not selfish in the matter of its endeavor.

That it has demonstrated at all times its willingness to help all of the sections of your trade and territory.

That recognizing the value there is in working aggressively their sole and only purpose is to develop practically all the natural resources that are in your section of the country and to that end, assuring progress and prosperity for all people who are now residents or may become residents by reason of invitations extended and conditions made inviting by the combined efforts of the people.

That it had never been selfish in its endeavors and has demonstrated its entire willingness at all times, even of its time and money and to give benefit of its experience to your neighbors who have become aspirants for a 'place in the sun' of your states prosperity.

That it has at all times, brought a quickening influence that will be for those who are backward as well as for the greater advancement for those upon whose shoulders, rest the twin blessings of Progress and Prosperity making for exalted greatness of an already great community that is 'marching on' to a greater growth by the combined work of the forward going citizens, who compromise your Chamber of Commerce.

Farm Pointers
 Seed when treatment for smut control may prove unsatisfactory from one or more of the following reasons: Smut infection is not destroyed; the grain is badly damaged in treatment or subsequent handling; part of the grain is reinfected in the handling after treatment; the seed bed is infected with spores that will germinate at about the same time as the seed. While soil infection cannot be controlled the choice of the most smut-resistant varieties that will succeed in the locality will help reduce the damage.

Poultrymen must do one of three things—trap-nest the flocks to find just how well each hen lays, study and use the principles of culling out a poor layer, or continue to keep some hens at a loss. The trap nest is too expensive to be practical except with birds of high yield used for breeding. Culling is the most profitable with the general farm or commercial flock, and how to cull is told in a new extension bulletin, 'Suggestive Points on Culling the Poultry Flock,' by H. E. Cosby. If any woman wants to accomplish anything politically, she stands a splendid chance of doing it in the Republican party—much better than anywhere else.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STRIKE.

The similarity of the names of the railway labor organizations sometimes result in confusion, both as to the specific organizations and as to their affiliations.

The five Brotherhoods, which are in no way part of or affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are as follows:

- (1) Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.
- (2) Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.
- (3) Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.
- (4) Order of Railway Conductors.
- (5) Switchmen's Union of North America.

The first four of these are often referred to as the 'Big-Four,' or the Train Service Employees. None of these organizations is on the strike.

The following organizations, which are known as the 'Shopcrafts Union,' and now out on the strike, are members of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor:

- (1) International Association of Machinists.
- (2) Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, International Alliance.
- (3) Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America.
- (4) International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.
- (5) International Brotherhood of Boiler-makers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America.
- (6) International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers.

Among the more important of the other railroad organizations which are members of the American Federation of Labor are the following:

- (1) United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, which organization did not go out on a strike, pending a rehearing of a reduction of wages as ordered by the Labor Board as of July 1.
- (2) Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.
- (3) International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.
- (4) Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen of America.
- (5) Order of Railway Telegraphers.

WHY SHOULD WOMEN JOIN A PARTY?

By Florence Reddick Beck.

When women attained suffrage, it was the advice of Mrs. Catt that they should go into the party of their own choice and be active in it having an influence on its policies—otherwise what was the use of the ballot? They had 'indirect influence' before, and if they were to stay outside of the parties, they might as well not have the vote.

As individuals, we have a certain influence—not very much among one

A WOMAN.
 By Charlotte Becker

She wanders down the dusty street,
 As keen of loveliness
 As those whom fortune sets apart
 To smile upon and bless.

She pauses by a florist's shop,
 Her wistful eyes alight,
 With hunger for the violets
 And roses red and white.

The favored draw their skirts aside
 With querulous distaste,
 Lest they be soiled by one least touch
 Of her they call unchaste.

If they would give a kindly glance,
 Or just one fragrant bloom,
 They might avert the tragedy
 Of shame that seems her doom.

But, dull to all they do not know,
 They neither dream nor guess,
 That this is common to them both;
 The love of loveliness.

Electric appliances in your home will save you hours of hard work—and they will perform your household tasks easily and thoroughly.

An electric vacuum cleaner gets ALL the dirt—you merely guide it over the floor. An electric washer cleans your clothes perfectly, yet it will not injure them. It is easy to operate, making washing a pleasure instead of a drudgery.

An electric iron saves countless steps and finishes your ironing better and more quickly than if you use the old-fashioned, troublesome "gad irons."

We have many other electrical appliances that will help you every day in your home. Come in and let us tell you how you can buy them on easy terms.
