After Dark

"Portland After Dark," a temperance and prohibition lecture, was given by Mr. Rowell, Portland superintendent of the "Out-to-Win" forces, Tuesday evening in the Tent Pavilion at Myrtle Park, corner Foster Road and 59th. Street. The tent, which seats about 700 was filled and many stood outside and listened as the speaker detailed some startling facts about Portland. He showed that there are more saloons in Portland than all libraries, schools, and churches combined, that there have been in six months been 6300 arrest for drunkenness and disturbances caused by liquor; that there are fifty per cent more police needed between the hours of six and twelve P. M., than in the day time.

Yet during the night there are only one tenth as many people on the streets. The police are placed around the saloons. While eighty per cent of the population is on the East Side fifty-five per cent of the police are on the West Side. He showed that these conditions prevail because of the saloon, and that seventy-five per cent of our municipal expenses is attributal to the saloon. Meetings in the tent will continue nightly for a number of evenings. Milton H. St. John is in charge. He is not only a speaker of power but a singer of pleasing personality. Many of the talks are illustrated. He deals with topics that bear most acutely upon present day conditions.

Mr. Rowell has consented to speak next Tuesday night in the tent on "War Declared Against Infidelity." He was once an infidel himself and will speak on infidelity from a former skeptic's standpoint. There will be special music, admission free, and everyone is cordially invited.
