William Walker Smith, United States consul general at Santo Domingo, to the amazement of the Waldorf-Astoria employes in New York, came down from his room on the seventh floor with a big Belgian police dog, which was given to him when he was in Europe. It is said to be the first time that a dog of this size has even been above the first floor of the hotel with the consent of the management. However, it was explained to everybody that Mr. Smith's police dog had a room all to himself in the Waldorf. That's another thing which the dog can boast about in later years. "That dog," said Mr. Smith, "saved me from drowning," and he intimated the dog had a right to the best there is. He said that the animal was a wonder and that he was very, very fond of him.

If Looks Out Any Figure.
I often have felt, in strolling about, in fact I have given it thought, How few homely men would hold the big jobs. If appearances counted for aught.
The guy with a figure of statuesque form Off his guard would never be caught; All of the white hopes he'd quickly knock out, If appearances counted for aught.
The recruit looks the part in a uniform neat, Although in the bush he is taught; He should shut out the team with never a hit, If appearances counted for aught.
The maiden dolled up in her modish new frock Earns her pay in a laundry so hot, But might be an heiress with money to burn, If appearances counted for aught.
The dubs would be dukes and the dukes would be dubs, With all of their bally old rot, And hashers would shine in society gay, If appearances counted for aught!

In Better Condition.
One afternoon a stranger happened into a country town, and while attending to some business in the corner grocery an old man rambled in. The stranger became interested and asked him his age.
"I am just 100 years old," answered the old man, sitting on a packing box.
"Is that so?" jokingly responded the stranger. "Well, I'll bet you don't live to see another hundred."
"I don't know about that," was the smiling rejoinder of the aged man. "I am a whole lot stronger now than I was when I started on my first hundred."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Thomas Hade, 35 years majordomo in the Astor family, has been retired and, according to report, pensioned for life by Vincent Astor. He was employed by the late Mr. and Mrs. William Astor, John Jacob Astor and Vincent Astor. There is probably no one whose features are more familiar to the society people of Europe and America and some dignitaries than Thomas Hade, because of long service in this noted family. His affable and kind manner made him a general favorite in Newport, as well as in New York, and many other places where the Astor family resided.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE
EFFECTIVE FORCE AT WORK
Tiny Bit of Humanity Graphically Describes to Bullying Attorney How He Captured Burglar.

Little Smithson was a meek, nervous-looking five feet of humanity. His manner suggested the probability of his heart breaking were he at any time compelled to kill a fly, even though it were in self-defense.
When, therefore, a burglar paid him a visit one night, he was a bit scared. The nocturnal visitor having been captured, Smithson had to give evidence at the trial.
The prisoner's counsel, a big bullying man, evidently thought he had got an easy job on when little Smithson entered the witness box.
Having described the events prior to the burglar's capture, Smithson said:
"Of course, I got him all right, but I had to use considerable force before he gave in."
"Oh, indeed?" replied the lawyer, with a skeptical smile, as he looked the little man up and down. "And what force was it you used?" evidently scouting the idea that it was of the physical variety.
"Oh," replied Smithson, with a bland smile, "it was the police force."

What Happened to Mary.
The maid-of-all-work in the service of a provincial family, the members whereof are not on the most amicable of terms, recently tendered her resignation, much to the distress of the lady of the house.
"So you are going to leave us?" asked the mistress, sadly, according to Tit-Bits, "What's the matter, Mary? Haven't we always treated you like one of the family?"
"Yis, mum," said Mary; "an' I've stooed it as long as I'm goin' to!"

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong." — Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
