CHERRYVILLE

The dry spell is broken. A fine shower here on Sunday night. Cherryville is on the verge of a boom. Parties are negotiating for the purchase of the store and hotel here with a view of erecting a large summer resort in connection with the store and colony of summer tent houses. A row of bungalows are on the program along the auto road here. Another year for summer homes as the building of a good hard surface road all the way over the mountains is an assured fact. J. W. Dixon of Fernwood has secured the contract for making the road from the Toll Gate up to the Government Camp a distance of seven miles. They have been complaining about Europe being too densely populated but if this war continues much longer there will be plenty of room for the women, children and cripples who will be left. The American cardinals did not get to Rome in time to help elect the new Pope but they got there in time to kiss the Pope's big toe.

Walter Maynard of Blend Slough down on the Columbia was up on a visit to Dr. Botkins and family this week. Mr. Maynard has been employed on one big dairy ranch for the past eight years. He says they have 100 cows on the ranch and one cow gives 65 lbs. daily the year around it being impossible to dry her up. This tide-land is very rich and produces immense crops of clover, kale, rutabagas, grain and vegetables of all kinds.

The Oregonian seems to be trying hard to help elect Dr. Withycombe while on the quiet sub rosa the "higher ups" in Portland are telling their Republican voters to vote for Dr. Smith. They are afraid U Ren with the Prohibition and independent votes might get elected. For if Gill would join in with U Ren and throw the Progressive votes to him there would be a mix-up.

These rains put an end to all danger of forest fires and the damage done over the state has been small for such a large area. It must be acknowledged that there is a good system in the state for fire protection and fighting the same when once a fire breaks out.

Ezra Trueman has gone to Portland for medical treatment and while there makes his home with Mrs. Curtis of Woodmere.

W. O. Rugh returned home last week after spending harvest season in Eastern Oregon.

When gallant and warm hearted Henry of Navarre ruled France he said he wished he could govern his realm so well that the poorest peasant might have a chicken in the pot for his Sunday dinner. The whole world at that time was astonished at this burst of generosity. The idea of a peasant after doing all the useful and necessary work having such a luxury as chicken dinner was preposterous. If such a state of affairs should be encouraged why the vast army of kings, nobles and priests might go hungry. From that day to this a vast army of parasites have preyed on the toilers and producers and try to make them believe it is the established order of things appointed and ordained by the Maker and Master of the Universe.

PINEAPPLES FOR DESSERT.

FRESH pineapples are abundant and inexpensive and make delicious desserts. Where fresh fruit cannot be bought the canned pineapple is available, so that, no matter how far one may be from city markets, this tempting fruit may be enjoyed.

Pineapple Baskets.—Wash the fruit, take off the leaves and save them to garnish with. Without paring cut the pineapple in three or four sections, according to its size. Scoop out the pulp, leaving a thin layer to form a bottom to the center cuts, thus forming baskets or cases to which the pulp is returned after shredding.

A Fruit Mold.
 Pineapple Cream.—Take the pulp of a large fresh pineapple or a can of the fruit and chop it up. Dissolve a box of gelatin in a pint of cold water, add the juice of the pineapple, place in a saucepan on the fire and let it boil. Take two cups of sugar and beat with the juice of two lemons. Pour the hot gelatin over the sugar and stir well; then add the pineapple. Set in a cold place until it begins to thicken; then stir in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Beat the whole for ten minutes, place in a mold and let cool. Serve with whipped cream.

Pineapple Fritters With Sauce.—Dip slices of pineapple in fritter batter and fry to golden brown in hot fat. Drain on soft paper and serve at once with the following sauce:
 Sauce.—Take the juice from the pineapple and add to it three-quarters of a cup of sugar, place on the fire and boil. Mix a level teaspoonful of arrowroot until smooth with three or four tablespoonfuls of cold water. Stir the arrowroot in boiling sirup and let simmer five or six minutes. When ready to serve add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice to taste.

A Test Case For Home Industry

An acid test will be put to our theories about supporting home industries when we build the Interstate bridge at Vancouver.

$1,750,000 of public money will be expended in a highway crossing, the Columbia, money raised out of the taxpayers of two states.

In both states there are expensive home industries campaigns carried on, and both states have manufacturer's organizations.

As a matter of fact, in expending public money, the home industries in the past have got the worst of it nine times out of ten.

Cities, counties and states, board and commissioners have paid little or no attention to the rights of taxpayers, or the dinner pail.

As a nation we disclaim free trade policies and seek to enact laws to protect home industries, but among ourselves it is free trade.

In building this bridge it will take 8,000 tons of steel at forty dollars a ton, $320,000, and $100,000 of cement.

The rest of the money put into that bridge—$1,330,000 will be paid out for labor and material that can be supplied in Oregon and Washington.

Even the cement could be manufactured by the Pacific Northwest and probably will be, as both states now have cement plants on large scales.

The construction of the Vancouver bridge will be divided as follows: Steel work $750,000; pier construction $700,000; approaches $300,000.

Oregon and Washington have great contracting firms and plants for the fabrication of steel paying taxes on millions.

These firms employ labor by the thousands at big wages, and enrich their respective communities with taxes and payrolls running into hundreds of thousands.

Here is an opportunity to say that we will stand by the home industries and keep nearly a million and a half of our own money among our own people.

Tremont, Kern Park and Arleta

H. S. Ewing and L. Colts have the contract to build a residence at 1191 Tibbets St. near 39th and Powell Valley.

Bert Wilberg left Tuesday for an outing. He went down the Columbia.

Miss Augusta Seifer has bought the Retherford house at 65 and 48 Ave., S. E., last week. She will improve it and offer it for rent.

B. E. Bromwell has a contract to build a house at 34th and Frances St.

The next meeting of the Arleta Young Campaigners will be at the home of Rowley Metcalf, 4824, 64th St. All young people interested in Temperance work or other civic improvement among the young people are invited to attend.

The Silver Medal contest will be in the Arleta Baptist church corner 49 Ave. and 64th St., Tuesday evening at 7:30. Admission free. Everybody invited to attend.

Miss Adona Cochran, who has had charge of the Arleta library for the past two years and a half has given up the library work to resume her work as a teacher in the Salem schools.

At the annual meeting of the Arleta W. C. T. U. the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Stella Wilson; vice-president, Mrs. Maxey; secretary, Mrs. Patience Woodworth; treasurer, Mrs. Harza. Four delegates were elected to attend the county convention to be held in Centenary Methodist church corner East 9th and Pine St., Sept. 16th and 17th. Delegates are Mrs. Mary Fishburn, Mrs. Ada Jolly, Mrs. Patience Woodworth, Mrs. Sam Hoffman and Mrs. Stella Wilson. Alternates were, Mrs. Meta Snider and Mrs. W. D. Lockwood. Our next meeting will be held at Lucky Cottage Sept. 22, at 2:30 o'clock. All W. C. T. U. women are invited whether members or not.

When To Crowd Pigs

"There are two stages in the life of a pig that is being raised for market that demand plenty of good feed if the pig is made to reach the best market weight when in the best finished condition," says R. E. Reynolds, Extension livestock specialist of the Oregon Agricultural College. "These two stages are at weaning time, and when the pig has reached the hundred pound weight and is ready to be fed for market. Good pasture is a valuable adjunct to more concentrated feed, but cannot take the place of it at these times. Alfalfa is especially good, since it enables the pigs better to digest their other feed. But if the weanlings are not given grain they seldom produce well-shaped animals, and unless the heavy grain feeding is begun at the right time the finished state and the market weight are not reached at the same time. If grain feeding is delayed too long the pigs are not finished when they reach the 200-pound weight, and if begun too soon they reach the well finished stage before they are the right weight. A good many farmers increase the cost of production by failing to observe these two points in raising their market pigs."

Banker Brown—I hear that you have finally promised the hand of your daughter to Prof. Smith.

Banker Jones—Yes, but I am sorry that I did it.

Banker Brown—Why sorry? I could not think of a better husband for your daughter.

Banker Jones—So I thought at first. But do you know Prof. Smith? Do you know that he is a man of very limited education? Just think of it; he doesn't know the first thing about baseball!

He—I can't make up my mind whether to devote myself to painting or to poetry.

She—Well, if I might advise, you better make it painting.

He—You've seen some of my pictures, then.

She—No, but I've heard some of your poems.—Fligende Blatter
